When Machine Strikes
Top of High Tree

WOMAN EMPLOYEE PRAISED FOR HEROISM

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 10 (AP).—A glancing blow of a plane wing against the top of a tall tree which stood like a sentinel of doom in the fog-smeared hillside was today blamed for the loss of four lives and the destruction of a huge air liner.

A surgeon of international repute, Dr. Robert C. Coffey, of Portland, and three other men, met death in the plane when it spun around in the cloudy skies last night and crashed on its side on the wooded hill near Portland.

The other dead were Arthur A. Trostler, of Chicago, sales manager of the Grigsby-Cronin Company; Herman Cohn, of Portland, vice-president of the Electric Steel Foundry Company; and A. W. Davis, of Seattle, a veteran pilot of United Air Lines, Western Air Express.

SIX OTHERS IN PLANE

Six other persons were hurt but only three of them required hospital attention. They were Dr. John Strumfjord, of Portland, assistant to Dr. Coffey, severe bruises and shock; Robert E. Pelouse, Portland investment broker, fractured knee-cap, and H. B. Woodworth, of Oakland, co-pilot, broken nose, fractured ribs and burns. Floyd Hart, of Medford, E. J. Powers, of Glendale, Cal., and Miss Libby Wurgatt, of Oakland, received minor burns and bruises.

FIRE SWEEPS PLANE

Within five minutes after the air liner left Swan Island Airport, en route to San Francisco, it had spun heavily to the ground and flames were sweeping through its metal structure. The plane, a Boeing 247, a twenty-two-year-old Miss Wurgatt, who has been with the transport company about two weeks, was remarked upon by the survivors. Although dazed by the terrific impact, she braved the flames and the danger of explosion several times to determine that all who could be saved were taken from the ship.

DELEGATION LED BY ARCHBISHOP

Imposing Group Urges Government to Press for Disarmament Agreement

LONDON, Nov. 10 (CP).—On the eve of Armistice Day, continuation of the work of the Disarmament Conference, now at a deadlock because of Germany's withdrawal, was urged tonight upon Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, by a great delegation headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

His Grace was the head of an imposing group including representatives of the churches, literature, science, industry, education and the peace movement. They urged the Government to continue to press for a disarmament agreement on the basis of a draft convention that might be presented to Germany for her acceptance as the joint proposal of the remaining conferees.

DRAFT CONVENTION

Such a draft convention, the spokesmen declared, should provide for limitation of arms expenditure, forbid rearmament by any nation, provide for abolition within a limited period of every type of weapon now forbidden Germany by the Versailles Treaty, and establish effective, regular and continuous international supervision of the disarmament process.

Premier Tolmie Plants Tree in Mayors' Grove

HONORED by the City of Victoria with a privilege that is jealously guarded and which will become more and more valuable as time goes on, Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, added a sturdy linden tree to the Mayors' Grove at Beacon Hill Park yesterday morning.

Arctic Rigors Braved When
Two Dead and Five
Wait Rescue

CAMERON BAY, Northwest Territories, Nov. 10 (CP).—Another page in the stirring annals of Canada's Northern frontier was turned tonight as seven men—trained to the Northland's rigors—rested from their greatest test on the edge of the Arctic Circle.

Five came out on frost-bitten wings today from a "Jodel" biplane on the bleak Eastern shore of Great Bear Lake. There they had waited more than a week after their supply-laden schooner blew up under them on the lake's wind-torn surface.

LONG TRAMP FOR HELP

As they huddled there in improvised shelter, two companions tramped 100 miles to this base of miners and fliers, to tell of two men dead in Great Bear's waters, and five waiting on its shore for rescue.

Pilot John Bythell, of the Canadian Airways brought four of them out today, while Harry Hayter came down with Vic Ingraham, well-known trader of the North, in a private plane. Ingraham suffered burns when the schooner "Speed" blew up 100 miles northwest of Cameron Bay, killing Engineer Harry Jebb and Helper Jimmy Potts.

EXPECTED TO RECOVER

But, with Stan Hooker and Bill Parker, the two who tramped for help, he and the others were expected to recover. All were suffering from cold and exposure, their faces pinched and their bodies

NELSON, Nov. 10.—For his work on behalf of the returned soldiers of Kootenay West, irrespective of politics, W. K. Esling, member for Kootenay West, will be honored in Nelson on Armistice afternoon. At this function, which has been arranged by returned men and which is being participated in by high political officials of all faiths, Mr. Esling will be presented with an illuminated address. Early Agreement on Recognition Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP).—In a three-hour conference at the White House President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Foreign Minister, reached an understanding which is expected in official quarters to lead to an early announcement on Russian recognition.

TEMPERATURES DROPPED

Temperatures dropped below zero and high winds that whipped snow into blizzard proportions made the long journey arduous and dangerous. After resting here and recovering from exposure, the men will leave by train for Edmonton, 300 miles southeast, and home.

Fear for the safety of the others still aboard the Mabel was not held by any of the men. Food was being supplied to the ship from trappers and trading posts along the river banks.

POSTPONED AGAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP).—Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle today was forced to postpone his take-off on a stratosphere balloon expedition, due to weather conditions.

Victoria Will Honor War Dead at Cenotaph Service Today

Today is Remembrance Day!

Fifteen years ago, at exactly 11 o'clock in the morning, trumpeters blew the "Cease Fire" on the Western Front, and the crash of heavy artillery and murderous chatter of machine guns was stilled after four terrible years.

Today at 11 o'clock, millions of heads the world over will be bowed in reverent memory for those who fell on the battlefields of the Great War. At the Cenotaph in Victoria, thousands of citizens will be gathered to pay their tribute of respect to those who will never return.

Don't forget, wherever you may be, when the clock strikes 11, pause, and remember.

BRAVE COLD TO GAIN FREEDOM

Six Men Safely Tramp One Hundred Miles From Ice-
Locked Boat

PORT MCMURRAY, Alta., Nov. 10 (CP).—Challenging Winter's blast and suffering hardships, six men today completed a 100-mile tramp along the barren banks of the Athabasca River in a successful bid to escape from longer confinement aboard the motorboat Mabel, frozen in the ice of the river for the past two weeks.

SEVENTEEN REMAIN

Leaving aboard the boat seventeen other men, who were making the trip from Northland mining camps to Port McMurray, the six men formed the second party to successfully tramp from the ice-locked boat. Two men made the hike and arrived here last week.

Weary and with torn clothing, they walked into Port McMurray today, after withstanding hardships and cold on the long trip through the wilderness. They were running short of food, and only the aid which they were able to give each other prevented loss of life on the journey.

DANGEROUS BLIZZARDS

Temperatures dropped below zero and high winds that whipped snow into blizzard proportions made the long journey arduous and dangerous. After resting here and recovering from exposure, the men will leave by train for Edmonton, 300 miles southeast, and home.

Fear for the safety of the others still aboard the Mabel was not held by any of the men. Food was being supplied to the ship from trappers and trading posts along the river banks.

BIG BEN TO BOOM SIGNAL

Whole British Nation Will Stand in Reverent Silence
as Hour Strikes

LONDON, Nov. 10 (CP).—The booming of London's "Big Ben" tomorrow will recall the hour, 11 a.m., at which the Great War ended fifteen years ago. Its first note will find King George, the Prince of Wales, leaders of the nation and representatives of the Dominions standing before the Cenotaph in Whitehall, solemnly commemorating the Empire's 1,048,800 war dead. For two minutes the whole nation will stand in silence. Only railway and steamship traffic will move.

THE KING'S WREATH

Shortly before the hour that brought the world peace after more than four years of fierce conflict, His Majesty will lay a wreath of poppies at the foot of the Cenotaph. The Prince of Wales will deposit one after him.

From the windows of the Home Office Queen Mary and the ladies of the Royal household will watch the ceremony.

The Duke of York will not be there. He will be in Edinburgh joining the observance of silence in front of the stone of remembrance which faces the City Chambers. He will attend a service at St. Giles' Cathedral, and place a wreath within the Scottish National War Memorial at Edinburgh Castle.

Around the Cenotaph men in service and veterans, representing the Army, the Royal Navy, the Royal Air Force, the Merchant Marine, the fishing fleet, and associations of ex-servicemen, will form a hollow square.

The great clock sounds the first stroke of 11, a gun will be fired from the Cenotaph.

SUGGESTS BOTH SIDES DISARM

Says Russia and Japan
Should Agree to Cease
Border Activities

TOKIO, Nov. 10 (AP).—The suggestion that Russia and Japan get together and agree to cease all military activity along the entire extent of the Siberian-Manchurian border was made today by Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota.

"It would be a good idea to extend the provisions of the Portsmouth Treaty, whereby Russia and Japan agree to abstain from military measures along their mutual frontiers, to the entire extent of the Siberian-Manchurian border," Hirota said.

He was referring to the treaty terminating the Russo-Japanese War, in which Articles 2 and 9 provide for demilitarization along short stretches of the Korean and Manchurian boundaries, the only points in Russo-Japanese territory that are actually contiguous.

Improvement Is Well Maintained

MONTREAL, Nov. 10 (CP).—Reassuring news of Sir Arthur Currie's condition was issued from the Royal Victoria Hospital tonight.

A brief statement signed by his physicians said: "Sir Arthur passed a good day and his improvement has been well maintained."

CENTRAL BANK FOR CANADA CHIEF FEATURE OF REPORT

Establishment of New Financial Institution Said to Be Highlight of Commission's Recommendations—Little Serious Fault to Be Found
With Banking System as Whole

Minority Statement Likely To Outline Reservations

OTTAWA, Nov. 10 (CP).—Establishment of a central bank is understood to be the most important prescription written into the report of the Royal Commission which investigated Canada's banking and currency problems under the chairmanship of Lord Macmillan. The report will be published Monday and in the meantime its contents remain a closely guarded secret outside Government circles.

The general belief is that there would be little serious fault found with the banking system as a whole, considering the manner in which it has met the economic crisis, although there will undoubtedly be numerous suggestions for more or less minor amendments to the act designed to strengthen and improve it.

Mexicans And British In Dispute

MEXICO, D.F., Nov. 10 (AP).—The Government ordered several warships to proceed at once to the Bay of Chetumal, Quintana Roo, in connection with a dispute between authorities of that territory and of British Honduras.

According to extra-official reports, officials in British Honduras have refused Mexican ships permission to enter the bay or the canal of Chetumal, although half of the waters are in Mexican territory.

Unless a prompt settlement of the question is reached by local officials, it is believed diplomatic officers of Mexico and England will be called upon to negotiate.

INFORMER GIVEN SWEEP WINNINGS

But Sympathetic Smile Seems Sufficient Compensation for Pine and Confiscation

MONTREAL, Nov. 10 (CP).—Judge Maurice Gauthier today convicted former P. A. Ambrose, won in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes on the Cambridge Street Stakes, and ordered the money turned over to Miss E. Hemmington, who took action as an informer against Ambrose.

The money goes to Miss Hemmington under an aid provided by the Criminal Code that anyone turning informer against a sweepstake or lottery winner is entitled to the winnings. Ambrose was fined $20 and costs.

When the verdict was announced today, however, Ambrose wore a broad smile and Miss Hemmington smiled back in friendly fashion.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10 (CP).—With samples indicating a promising gold find, D. McDermott and Thomas Ray, both of Aberdare, are in Winnipeg today. The new find is on the west shore of Elbow Lake, twelve miles east of Hemming, on the Northern Manitoba Railway.

HITLER ENDS NATION-WIDE VOTE APPEAL

Campaign Brought to Close
With Speech Heard All
Over Germany

PLEBISCITE WILL BE RECORDED ON SUNDAY

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler brought his pre-election campaign to a dramatic close today with a direct appeal to German workers to be "true to themselves" in the Reich's moves for international equality.

"I do not need your vote," he asserted, "for I am firmly in the saddle. But you yourselves need the vote if you want to be true to yourselves."

Huge, glittering dynamos, able to develop staggering electrical energies, seemed dwarfed when the Chancellor went into action in Germany's largest electrical factory.

ANSWER TO ACCUSATION
The dictator-chancellor chose this singular setting to tell the nation it must fight for peace, and in Sunday's plebiscite on the Reich's foreign policy answer the world's accusation that the German people are bloodthirsty beasts.

"Before the world, you and I want to show we demand being treated fairly," he asserted. "We do not want to bother other people and they should not bother about us."

"You are represented abroad as bloodthirsty beasts. I will not have this nation treated as a shoe-shiner."

Every German stopped in his tracks and ceased all activity for a minute of silence as Hitler mounted on an improvised platform in the dynamo shop of the Siemens works near Berlin.

SPEECH HEARD EVERYWHERE
Heralded by sirens everywhere, his speech was heard through loudspeakers on every street corner, in every shop, office and school. All the arts of the Propaganda Ministry were used to make the address an auspicious finale for the campaign ending Sunday, when voters will express their viewpoint on Germany's withdrawal from Geneva.

Workers climbed on iron beams in the shop, and perched high on the machine to get a better view of him.

UNDER SPOTLIGHTS
A battery of high-powered lamps was focused on Hitler, clad in leather boots, brown breeches, a black coat and brown shirt. He launched into an attack on the Versailles Treaty, and asserted that Germany would never again gather with other nations around the green table of diplomacy unless her equality were assured.

Roar after roar of applause reverberated in the vast iron-beamed shop.

"We will not have Germany ruined for the sake of the existence of some organization or other—the workers' solidarity is a sham, because the international clique is setting one people against another."

FAITH IN EQUALITY
"I was inspired to undertake my fight for Germany's liberation, because I had boundless faith in the equality of the German people."

"It was not the intellectuals upon whom I depended, but upon the two classes I knew best—the workers and the farmers."

"I call tonight for titles. The only epitaph I want is, that I did my job honestly and fearlessly. It is our children's interests I am thinking about."

"I am not so crazy as to want war. I know war. Many other statesmen do not. Germany's calculators never saw a bullet. In times like these, the only thing to do is to remain firm and not yield one iota."

ONE LAW FOR ALL

"One law for one, and another for another, is a system that cannot last. Why do not the others trust us? When has the German nation broken its pledged words?"

"We are ready to go into every international conference, and every treaty negotiation, but only as equals. I do not intrude upon private society unless I am treated as equal. Similarly, I will not have this nation treated as a shoe-shiner."

"Either you give us equality, or you will never see us."

RARE DISEASE
LED TO DEATH

Representatives of forty Chicago hotels agreed to submit their employees to regular physical examinations to guard against carriers of the disease coming in contact with food prepared for guests.

Dr. Bunde, who stated yesterday the disease was known to have resulted in fifteen deaths over the United States since July and Sunday to be a final tribute to Texas Guinan, famous night club entertainer.

Miss Guinan's body, expected to arrive tomorrow morning from Vancouver, will lie in state in a Broadway funeral parlor, where the body of Rudolph Valentino, motion picture star, was reposed. Burial services will be conducted Sunday.

WILL LIVE IN STATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—A squad of fifty policemen was detailed today to handle the huge crowds expected to mill around a Broadway funeral parlor tonight.

The funeral of Texas Guinan, famous night club entertainer, will be held in a Broadway funeral parlor, where the body of Rudolph Valentino, motion picture star, was reposed. Burial services will be conducted Sunday.

BIG BENTO BOOM SIGNAL

The horde of parade and silence for two minutes will descend on heads bowed in remembrance and prayer. Another gun will end the silence. A bugler will sound the "last post" and the crowd will sing "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

The Bishop of London will lead a short service. "Reveille" will be sounded.

The crowd will sing one verse of "God Save the King," and His Majesty will re-enter the Home Office. Then the troops will march away, the ex-servicemen will march, and the march past, and the public will begin its pilgrimage past the monument at the grave of the "Unknown Soldier" in Westminster Abbey.

SERVICE IN ABBEY

Before that stark tomb inside which lies the body of the unknown man who symbolizes all the war dead of the Empire, a service will begin at 10:30.

After the King and the Prince of Wales have laid their wreaths at the Cenotaph, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, will deposit one in the name of the Dominion.

Miss Elizabeth Montagu will lay a wreath on behalf of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire. Mrs. Lancelotti Dent, of Toronto, and Mrs. W. P. Phillips, of Montreal, will deposit one on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Association, and Mrs. Edith Brown will lay one for the Order of Canadian Widows and Mothers of the Great War.

A CRIMSON FIELD

Tonight in the little patch of ground outside Westminster Abbey, known as the Field of Remembrance, Captain E. A. Fitzroy, Speaker of the House of Commons, deposited the first cross of the year in memory of members of the Houses of Lords and Commons who fell in the war. Later the public covered the little field with thousands of imitation poppies until it was crimson under the glare of searchlights which played upon it.

Tomorrow night, before the Remembrance Festival starts in Albert Hall, the Prince of Wales will plant a cross of poppies in the field. The person will be rare in Britain who does not wear a poppy on his lapel tomorrow. More than 40,000,000 have been sold for the British Legion's appeal.

AT ALBERT HALL
At the Legion's Albert Hall festival the Prince of Wales will recite one verse of Laurence Binyon's "To the Fallen." The Brigade of Guards Band will play wartime songs and marches and the choir of the Wellington Barracks Chapel will sing "O, Valiant Heart."

Both the Cenotaph ceremony and the Albert Hall festival will be broadcast to the Empire.

Fatal Catalina Airplane Wreck

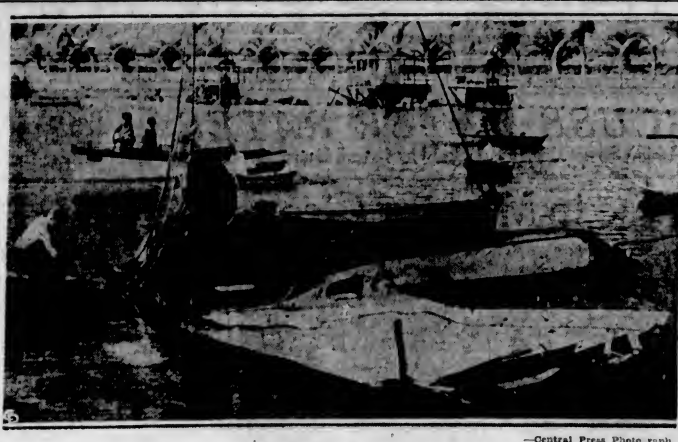

PHOTO shows the wreckage of the plane in which E. MacFarlan Moore, air line director and son-in-law of the late Admiral W. A. Moffett, and his co-pilot, George Baker, lost their lives when a plane nosed over while taking off from Catalina Island for San Pedro, California. The remnants of the plane were hauled to the surface with aid of a derrick.

STABILIZATION IS NECESSARY

Steady Currency Essential to Business Recovery,
Says Economist

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Sir William Beveridge, director of the London School of Economics, said tonight that stabilization of the dollar in relation to gold is a necessary step for balance of the American and international business structure.

Examination of the whole banking system by an impartial committee to make investments safe and free of Federal credit to lower interest on all debts are two other essential steps in this nation's recovery programme, he said.

Sir William spoke at a banquet of the Pilgrims—an Anglo-American society formed to promote goodwill between this country and its Motherland.

URGES CO-OPERATION
Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, privy councillor and member of Parliament, told the Pilgrims that tension is growing so great in Europe that the "shadows of the angel of destruction are hovering over the land." And if there is war, he said, "the United States probably will be drawn into it whether you will or not."

Intense co-operation between this nation and England is the only safeguard for peace, he said.

Shrunk from hunger and the bitterness of zero weather. Dr. T. O. Byrne, of Cameron Bay, who flew in with Bythell to give first aid to the stranded men, said all would regain a full measure of health in time.

Parker and Hooker, who suffered frostbites in their struggle over the ice miles of barren shore, were their six-day tramp to reach Cameron Bay, also are receiving medical attention here.

CARRYING SUPPLIES

The Speed set out from Port Franklin on the southwest shore of the lake to go 200 miles northeast to Cameron Bay, carrying supplies for Northern mining camps. She started the journey on October 20. When no word of her progress came on October 25, searches were immediately started.

No clue as to her fate came until two days ago, when Hooker and Parker fought through the stormy wintry weather and reached Cameron Bay.

GAVE LIVES IN LATE WAR

Civil Servants Honor Members of Staff Who Made
Supreme Sacrifice

In the presence of the united staffs of all departments and branches of the provincial service, a simple but impressive memorial service was held in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings at 3 p.m. yesterday in memory of sixty-four civil servants who made the supreme sacrifice while serving with the colors between 1914 and 1918, in the Great War.

A small but gallant company placed a magnificent wreath on the bronze tablet in the rotunda, after an invocation by Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe. Members of the civil service served in the war with all branches of the colors, including naval, military and air forces. Many achieved distinction for bravery on the field. Not a few served the entire duration of hostilities, and returned later to take up their civil duties once more.

The report will be a guide to the House of Commons committee, which will have the responsibility of revising the Bank Act at the forthcoming session of Parliament.

The revision, which is carried out every ten years, was due a year ago, but was postponed by special Act of Parliament, so that the committee might have the benefit of a royal commission report.

Those who lost their lives are believed by survivors to have been killed outright by the crash or to have been rendered unconscious. After repeated attempts to remove them from the cabin, flames drove the other injured passengers from the ship. The bodies of the dead could not be removed until today. They were burned beyond recognition.

Dr. Coffey was flying to Medford to perform an emergency operation upon Dr. L. A. Ealade, of Medford, former Philadelphia surgeon of note.

The news of Dr. R. C. Coffey's tragic death in an airplane crash near Portland, Ore., was received with sincere regret by many Victoria friends and patients of the distinguished surgeon. He was a frequent visitor to this city, and several years ago accompanied Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Butchart on their trip to Siam and the Far East.

LOWER WAGES

Board Proposes Additional 5 Per Cent Cut for Railway Employees

OTTAWA, Nov. 10 (CP).—In a unanimous report to Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, the board of conciliation which investigated the wage dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its clerks, freight handlers and station employees recommended a new agreement providing for a 15 per cent deduction from basic rates of pay.

The report, which was made public today, makes it clear the proposed 15 per cent deduction from the basic rates means merely an additional 5 per cent to the 10 per cent deduction already in operation. The basic rates are to be preserved, "to be restored when conditions shall permit." The recommendation for a 15 per cent deduction from basic rates is qualified by an intimation it should not be applicable in the case of certain low-paid employees.

NO INCREASES
Also, the board declares the proposed new wage agreement should provide "that it shall not be applied so as to bring about any increase to employees from their present rate of compensation in the positions they now occupy."

For those employees who have, on account of reductions of staff, accepted lower-rated positions than those which they previously occupied, involving a decrease in their rates of pay amounting to $13.12 or more a month, it is recommended the 15 per cent deduction be not applied so as to decrease them below a minimum rate of $87.50 per month. This recommendation is applied to employees in clerical positions.

Suggestions Made May Affect Nurses In Training Schools

Important Papers by Dr. D. A. Stewart and Dr. E. L. Ross, Manitoba Physicians, Read at Closing Session of Hospitals Convention Here

SALIENT recommendations concerning candidacy for admission to the nurses' training schools were made in papers prepared by Dr. David A. Stewart and Dr. E. L. Ross, both of the Manitoba Sanatorium, at Ninette, Man., read by J. H. McVety at the final session of the annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals Association yesterday.

Dr. Stewart's paper quoted statistics showing that there was an increasing percentage of T.B. among nurses in training schools throughout the country, and Dr. Ross made two important recommendations in the closing session yesterday, claiming that nurses went into training too young, and in maintaining that they should undergo a more thorough examination before being admitted to the training schools.

Other valuable points in discussion on these two papers, the title of which was in each instance "Tuberculosis Among Nurses," were brought out in the course of the discussion, among the speakers being Dr. A. S. Lamb, traveling T.B. clinic specialist; Dr. W. H. Hatfield, an independent T.B. specialist of Vancouver; Dr. E. P. Lapp, of Tranquille Sanatorium, and Dr. M. T. MacEachern.

OFFICERS ELECTED
Election of officers and the report of the resolutions committee comprised the principal other business of the closing session yesterday morning, and the majority of the delegates from the Mainland and Up-Island left for home some time during the afternoon.

RESOLUTIONS
All the following resolutions were carried when put to the meeting: 1. Resolved, that whereas it has been proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that hospitals throughout the province cannot continue to operate with the amount of the Government grant now obtaining, therefore be it resolved that our executive be instructed, pending the introduction of state health insurance legislation, to urge upon the Government the absolute necessity of restoring to the hospitals the amount withheld since April 1, 1933, or at least making the grant equal to the amount of the grant obtaining prior to April 1, 1933.

COMPENSATION CASES
2. Whereas, our hospitals are obliged to take patients sent to their doors by members of the medical fraternity, and whereas our hospitals are obliged to give such patients every service ordered by the medical practitioner, consisting of nursing service, food, X-ray service, laboratory service, medicines and all else that the doctor orders, and that the hospital can provide; and whereas, experience has proven that the Workmen's Compensation Board refuses to pay for the hospitals for the services they are forced by the Government to render under doctor's instructions; therefore be it resolved that this association instruct its executive to urge upon the Government the necessity of amending the act governing the Workmen's Compensation Board so that the board must pay for all services rendered by the hospitals to Workmen's Compensation Board cases ordered by a medical practitioner, and that the same rate be paid to all hospitals.

HOSPITALS UNDERPAID
3. Whereas, the experience of years has proven conclusively that the municipalities of the province have not been paying the hospitals for services rendered, as required by Section 464 of the Municipal Act, therefore be it resolved that this association instruct its executive to urge upon the Government the advisability of amending the Hospital Act by (a) striking out the words "seventy cents" in Section 31 (1) as amended in 1925, and substituting therefor the words "one dollar and twenty-five cents"; (b) by striking out sub-section four of the said Section 31. This resolution was amended to read $1 instead of $1.25.

MOTOR INSURANCE
4. Whereas, experience has proven that our hospitals have, in the past, lost a lot of money as a result of motor accidents, owing to the patients refusing to pay their hospital accounts, although receiving compensation under motor policies covering legal liability, therefore be it resolved that this association instruct its executive to urge upon the Government the necessity of bringing down legislation making it obligatory for insurance companies to pay hospital accounts direct, and making it legal for the insurance companies to deduct the amount paid the hospitals from the amount due the injured party under his or her policy.

FORMER RESIDENT OF CITY VISITING HERE
John W. Morris, who for many years was identified with the fruit and produce business in a wholesale way in Victoria, but who is now a resident, who has been carrying on the same line of business, is paying a visit to Victoria. It is a number of years since Mr. Morris went south, where he is meeting a number of old-time friends who are still resident in this city. Speaking of conditions in California, he stated there is an evidence that business is returning along former lines, although in many ways it has a long way to go before normalcy is restored.

It appeared to him that British Columbia is due for quite a boom in mining. Throughout the length of the Pacific Coast, according to Mr. Morris, this feeling of optimism with respect to British Columbia mining operations is in evidence.

Roving Policeman Here On Tour Around World

John Crawford, Former Colleague of Chief of Police Heatley, Has Cycled Through Twenty-Eight Countries—Off for Far East Tonight

The Joyous Adventures of Arlido Pujol, made famous by William J. Locke, author, are nothing compared with those experienced by John R. W. Crawford, retired police officer, who has just completed his fourth bicycle trip across Canada to visit an old colleague, Chief of Police Thomas Heatley, before embarking for Japan.

Mr. Crawford retired from the Sunderland, Durham, police, fourteen years ago, and since then has traveled all over the world on a bicycle. He has used the same machine the whole time and has toured twenty-eight countries. He now proposes to cycle through Japan, China, Siam, Burma and India. He has toured the latter two countries, but the others he has never visited before.

Chief Heatley and Mr. Crawford once served on the same police force together, and every time that Mr. Crawford tours Canada he looks up his old friend here.

EXCITING TOUR
Mr. Crawford, before coming to Canada, spent three months in South America. During that time, he was in two earthquakes, a volcanic eruption and a rebellion. He crossed the Andes on his bicycle and related the story last night of how he narrowly escaped death during that ride. As he was nearing the summit, on which has been erected the famous statue of Christ, he became too exhausted to continue his journey, so he struck camp on the side of the road. Some motorists stopped where he was camped and he offered them some tea.

They asked him what he intended to do, and he said he was going to spend the night out in the open. "You will freeze to death," he was warned. Mr. Crawford did not think this would happen, however, until it was explained to him that the weather was freakish in the Andes and the nights intensely cold, although the days might be hot. He realized his danger when the driver told him that thirteen men had died while sleeping not 200 yards from where he was camped. Needless to say, Mr. Crawford accepted the offer of a room.

Another story of former appearances of Amy Cadborosaurus, Victoria's famous sea-serpent, was told yesterday by O. Ferguson, well-known pioneer and prospector, who, in the company of Charles Walker, a brother of Thomas Walker, of Victoria, sighted it in Cumshewa Inlet, off Parr Island, near Skidegate Inlet, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, in 1906.

According to Mr. Ferguson, who was a visitor to Victoria yesterday, they were rowing across the inlet, and although they had heard several Indian stories relating to the existence of such a monster, had never had any cause to believe them.

On this particular occasion, however, Mr. Ferguson, who was watching for a rock in the vicinity, suddenly saw a large hump in the water, which, after they had been watching for a short time, suddenly unclothed and assumed serpent-like proportions and commenced to move towards them. The two men were somewhat frightened, but the beast appeared quite harmless and as it neared the boat, it swam to the side to avoid them.

Mr. Ferguson's description of the serpent tallied with that of Amy Cadborosaurus.

Y.W.C.A. Observes Fellowship Week

In conjunction with Y.W.C.A. all over the world, a week of world fellowship was observed by members and friends of the Victoria Y.W.C.A. from November 12 to November 18.

In her presidential message, issued from International headquarters in Switzerland, Miss C. M. van Asch van Wyck has made a stirring appeal that this week of world fellowship may be more widely observed than in former years, to the end that a deepened knowledge and closer relationship between God and His children all over the world may be experienced, and manifested locally, nationally and internationally in renewal of faith, love and power. Any girl or young woman who is interested is cordially invited.

Victoria Bar Association to Tender Banquet to Hon. H. B. Robertson

Members of the Victoria Bar Association will tender a complimentary dinner to Hon. Harold B. Robertson, of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. Members of the legal profession in this city will gather in the Union Club next Thursday evening for the purpose of showing appreciation of the signal honor which has been bestowed upon a former member of the association.

A short time ago the congratulations of members of the local bar were conveyed to his Lordship upon the occasion of his taking his place on the bench here as resident judge of the Supreme Court for the capital city of the province. On that occasion two of the members spoke, H. A. Maclean, K.C., and Lindley Crease, K.C. Now it is proposed that a banquet be extended to Mr. Justice Robertson, at which all the members of the bar may meet around the festive board and a social evening be spent with his Lordship.

PAID MINISTER HURRIED VISIT

Cross-Examination of Hon. J. W. Jones Required Before He Vacated Office

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, was under cross-examination in the Parliament Buildings yesterday in connection with a move on the part of the Pioneer Mining Company to adjust the taxation levied against the concern and which formed the subject matter of a mandamus order directed against the Minister of Finance in the Supreme Court in Vancouver, with Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald presiding.

The dispute is with regard to the depletion allowance which has been set and which affects the amount of the taxation assessed.

The Minister of Finance had filed an affidavit, which was used in the court proceedings in Vancouver. Without the cross-examination of the minister, it was held by the court that the affidavit would not be capable of being used.

BEFORE REGISTRAR
For this reason, J. A. Clark, K.C., obtained the right to come to Victoria and cross-examine Mr. Jones. F. G. T. Lucas, K.C., appeared for the other side, with Eric Pepler, K.C., also appearing for the minister at the cross-examination here yesterday. The proceedings were taken before the Registrar of the Supreme Court.

The necessity for haste in the taking of the evidence was due to the fact that Mr. Jones, in a few days, will be vacating office and

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

There is no happiness in the home when the mother is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. ARMISTICE DAY

There is a generation springing up which knows little or nothing of the meaning of Armistice Day, of the lessons of the Great War, of the responsibilities that it entailed, and of its effect upon the history of mankind. On this, the fifteenth anniversary of the day when the guns fell silent on the Western front and in every battle area in the theatre of the struggle, there are two classes of humanity who regard the event from quite different points of view. One is composed of those who lived through the Great Adventure, who before the outbreak were meeting the full claims of life, and who in the period of 1914-1918 shared in the anxieties, dangers and losses. The other class is the younger generation. Those of this later era have no poignant memories of sufferings and bereavements. Their hearts are unclouded by the changes that have taken place; for them Armistice Day is little more than a holiday in which enjoyment is to be sought.

Memory inevitably grows dim with the passing of the years. There are those, however, still in our midst who treasure in their hearts that memory of kith and kin who laid down their lives on the battlefields. The intensity of the suffering has been mellowed by time, but there is no loss of heartfelt appreciation of pure love, of faithful service and of courageous action. It is these attributes that are the outstanding lessons of the Great War. They flow through the memory like a clear stream of virtue, warming even the chill side of earth's restless cares. They are still an inspiration to fidelity in service and to courage in danger. They are the lessons that the younger generation should learn. It is not enough for them to be told that war is a horrible experience. They must know that it is a noble deed, that the highest attributes in the heart of man, and that refinement can emerge from the crucible of suffering. The youth of our times have their own precious heritage of kinship with the dead who fell on the acclimated of earthly passions.

All have participation in a life in which sacrifice and sorrow must be intermingled. It is realization of this that makes for life lived in loyalty, and perhaps in righteousness as well. There is in the anniversary of Armistice Day something which impels thoughts to go back to the sources of worthy living. Those who have recollections of this character see the wider significance of the event which convulsed the world. They see in it the lesson that man's life consists not of the abundance of the things that he possesses. It is a question of the full acceptance of the terms on which life is offered, and that, too, is a lesson for youth that can be learned from the war.

There are those prone to deny any claims that anything good emerged from the Great War. The fact, nevertheless, remains that the event and all that it signified was the locus of a regenerative life. That is why on this anniversary the memory is honored. Those who gave their all in the struggle. They and their comrades who have since passed on, as well as those who participated and survive; all, in fact, who sacrificed something in the world cataclysm, are worthy of remembrance. Thought and meditation should be indulged in today on the lessons of the war some few of which are permanent in their influence on the world. Those who will spare time will recall those lines of Laurence Binyon:

"If you think, have a kindly thought;
If you speak, speak generously
Of those who as heroes fought
And died to keep you free."

CONSERVATIVE PARTY POLITICS

The Non-Partisan candidates in the election for the Provincial Legislature, to be held here on November 27, have withdrawn. The title of the party was always an anachronism. They were party politicians pure and simply just as the C.C.F. candidates are. They were mostly insurgents from the Conservative Party who formed a political organization of their own, and any political organization for electioneering purposes forms a political party. In the statement issued by the local Non-Partisan candidates in withdrawing from the election there are some errors. The political confusion, as it is called, that prevails today is attributed "to the fact that since 1912 there has not been an election (in British Columbia) fought on an issue." That is not the case for the election of 1916 was fought definitely on the patronage issue and that of 1920 on the issue of the spendthrift policy in which the then administration had indulged. These were two issues which were definitely before the people and upon which they voted parties out of power.

As a matter of fact, the confusion to which the Non-Partisan statement alludes was cleared up by the result of the late election which gave the Liberals a handsome majority. That was a mandate in favor of the continuance of party government: It is only prejudice which suggests that it was anything else. The facts of the political situation that has developed in British Columbia might as well be faced squarely. The disposition of the energies of the Conservative Party and its disappearance as an organized unit in the late campaign constituted a main factor in the provincial election results. Non-participation of a united Conservative Party was due to three causes. The first was the decision of the Government in favor of Unionism; the second was the formation of the Non-Partisan Party, and the third was the attitude of the Provincial Executive of the Conservative Party in refusing to take part in the campaign. The latter decision was due to pressure exercised by adherents of the Non-Partisan group.

It is well that the Conservatives of the province should know exactly where they stand. The obstacles in the way of their reunion as a composite force have been removed. The Union Government movement is dead. The Non-Partisan Party has, to all intents and purposes, disappeared. The reunion of the scattered forces is a task which will be begun next month. The tragedy of Conservatism in the province will be perpetuated if there are many within the ranks of the party who hold views similar to some of those given voice to in the statement issued by the Non-Partisan candidates in this constituency in withdrawing from the field. Surely the Conservatives have had a lesson from those to whom they had every right to look for leadership. That lesson consisted in the dissensions which sprung up in the councils of the Party. They aroused so much umbrage that thousands of Conservatives, in order to affirm their allegiance to the ordered processes of party government, voted for the Liberal candidates in the late election, with the specific object, as well, of bringing about the defeat of the C.C.F. candidates.

The Conservatives of the province as a whole have a deep resentment in their hearts over their eradication as an organized unit in the election. Their aim now is to reorganize and establish their claim to recognition as a party. Obviously one of the first steps in this direction is to hold a provincial convention and to decide on leadership in the future. The second step should be the formation anew of Conservative associations in every constituency and their maintenance as strong and active organizations. The participants in the late election, who have been engaged in the ranks of the Conservatives the task of reorganization will be no easy one. It can be accomplished, however, under skillful leadership and because of the very earnest desire that exists that no happening of the future shall lead again to the regrettable fate which befell the party in the late election.

THE ARMY RUGBY MATCH

Today's Army Rugby game is an event of the football season that probably attracts more interest than any match locally under the English code, apart from the McKee Cup contests. The participants are the Fifth Regiment and the Canadian Scottish, and since the artillerymen took up the game the rivalry has been of the keenest. The Armistice Day match at the Royal Athletic Park should attract many spectators, for it is the outstanding sporting event of the day. With the Militia bands performing, there is an attractive spectacle promised to those who attend, who will include His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, and Mr. T. D. Pattullo, the Premier-designate.

Rugby football has grown in popularity in Victoria during the past few seasons, perhaps because better players are being developed and the inter-city championship has again been won after a lapse of many years. The fact is, in any case, that among juniors, intermediates, and seniors more enthusiasm than ever before is being shown. It is a welcome sign for there are few games which provide a better training for the future. As a youth plays Rugby so he will play the game of life. On the football field he goes all out to score and the lesson thus learned is one that urges him to press on keenly to his goal in more serious matters. Manhood can be learned on the Rugby field and that applies to the game as played under both the English and Canadian codes. The sport, indeed, is a searching test of character. It provides the zest for hard and honest work, for selflessness on behalf of the team as a whole for the avoidance of the display of pretence or show so that there may be loyal team spirit. A writer in the Glasgow Evening Citizen says:

"Life is not a bed of roses. Neither is Rugby football. It is a rough and tumble in which one has to take the rough with the smooth, without being upset by either. Chagrin and disappointment are as frequent as triumph and exaltation. One cannot choose one's company, but one has to live with it. Further, there are the Rules of the Game, and one must play fair by them also. And so it is in life. Hence one plays Rugby as part of one's education. The purpose of both is to make men."

One cause of the insufficiency of riches (to produce happiness) is that they very seldom make their owner rich.—Johnson.

Greatness lies not in being strong, but in the right use of strength.—Beecher.

THE U.S. FARMER

From a Seattle paper of (last) ten years ago (from memory).
The farmer milks the morning line.
He carries skim milk to the swine.
The kind of cow they have is a prize.
He rises up at break of day.
And plucks away till dusk is gray.
He hasn't time to rest or lounge.
More time to feed and read.
He stands in need of shorter hours.
More time to feed and read.
But he can't have the horses whiff
For bundles of refreshing hay.
The mules for fodder feed.
The old mare is a beauty prize.
The cow makes her milk and milk.
And stands upon her head.
And so he nurses her all night.
Until she's feeling good and right.
Instead of being dead.
He has to hunt a milking cow.
To save the milkers from a cow.
The old mare is a beauty prize.
The cow makes her milk and milk.
And stands upon her head.
And so he nurses her all night.
Until she's feeling good and right.
Instead of being dead.
The farmer has more to do to strike
Than Jonathan's sheep and Mike.
Who in the city live.
But he has other things in view.
And walk-out farmers would never do.
No profit would they give.
But if the farmers would never do.
And strike, as strike the other cows.
On where should we get off?
There'd be no bacon and no beans.
No milk in the trough.
No milk in the trough.
Just have a sheep, closing our eyes.
And drop right off the earth.

The above verses were submitted for publication through the courtesy and industry of a reader. They remind us of other verses, widely published at one time, which carried the title, "The Farmer Must Feed Them All." They also recall the fact that some years ago we indulged in some philosophical speculation about the general organization movement and as to what would happen to society when every section of the community was organized for the purpose of getting advantages over all other sections. We argued then that when every person was a member of some organization the conditions would be about the same as when there were no organizations at all. Individuals were on a common level, and every one was the architect of his own fortune.

The farmer was the last link in the chain of organization, and the farmer has gone on strike. At least the farmer has gone on strike in the United States, and has set an example to the farmers of all the rest of the world. That is the most interesting, and probably the final, phase of the organization movement. Other attempts have been made to organize the farmers. There were such attempts on the prairies, and there were attempts in British Columbia. The first attempts at organization were called pools, and they were failures, or at least they were not absolute successes. The prairie pools were restricted to grain growers, and they failed because grain can be grown in almost every country in the world. Attempts to fix prices and to restrict production in one country led to increased production and competition in prices in other countries. Attempts in one place created reactions in other places, and the last condition produced by organization was no better than the condition which prevailed when there was no organization. Human society is like water. It sooner or later reverts to the condition which physicians call a common level. There is a destiny which shapes our ends, as the greatest of the poets and one of the greatest of philosophers has said.

The most complete of human organizations were the railway brotherhoods. There are railway brotherhoods in Europe as well as in America. The transportation brotherhoods flourished as long as they were in the condition called in Great Britain "sheltered." In America that condition is called protected. They were sheltered or protected against competition for jobs, but after they were the railways which employed them were protected against the progress of scientific events. When the railways drove the stage coaches off the highways of Great Britain they signalled the beginning of a new transportation era, but they did not say the last word in the alphabet of transportation. The shelter and the protection were removed when motor cars and trucks began to operate upon the public highways. The companies also had been sheltered and protected; but today they have to meet competition. And so it is in all lines of human endeavor. Sooner or later organization ceases to be completely effective, and competition utterly changes the aspect of the situation.

As it has been in specific cases, so it will be in general cases; indeed, so it is now in many cases. The National Reconstruction Act of the United States (called N.R.A. for short) is an organization called into existence for the purpose of combatting organizations—labor organizations, trade organizations and big business organizations. As against big business N.R.A. is an offensive organization. As against labor and the farmer it is a defensive organization. General Johnson, the chief of the National organization, carries a big stick, which is like the magical rod of Aaron. When the magicians of Egypt were commanded by their supernatural powers, they cast their rods upon the ground and they became quivering serpents. When Aaron was challenged, he cast his rod upon the ground, and he also threw his rod upon the

SAYS CANADA WILL RECOVER

A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., Tells of Discussions at Liberal Summer Convention

"The Canadian people will be able to maintain their balance, and by careful progressive steps directed towards increasing the freedom of the people and raising the standard of living, can give them the leisure to take advantage of the outburst of life," declared A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., speaking at the Liberal Women's Forum yesterday afternoon on the Liberal Summer Convention, held last September at Port Hope, which he attended. The convention, which Mr. Macfarlane said took the form of a series of addresses by prominent educators and political students from Canada, United States and Great Britain, was not a conference to formulate a program or to pass resolutions, but rather to examine and discuss. In addition to the addresses, he said that a number of round-table discussions took place on matters such as Federal and Provincial relations, trade, tariffs and preferences, transportation problems, unemployment, Canadian banking and monetary policy, Canadian foreign policy and agricultural problems.

VACANCY OCCURS IN SCHOOL BODY

Election of Successor to R. R. Wilson in Oak Bay to Take Place Next Week

In order to fill the vacancy which has been created in the Oak Bay School Board by the resignation of R. R. Wilson, an election is to be held shortly. Nominations have been set for Tuesday next, and if an election is necessary, the polling will be on the following Friday, November 17. The returning officer will be R. F. Blandy, municipal clerk. One nomination has already been filed, that of Walter M. Walker, of the firm of Walker Walker & Sons, coal and wood dealers, who has as his mover Fred M. McGregor and as second, W. Ellis Brown. Mr. Walker has had experience on the City School Board, where he served for two years. He is now living in the Uplands, in the Municipality of Oak Bay.

The vacancy created is due to the fact that Mr. Wilson finds it necessary, in connection with his residence, to take up his residence in Vancouver. At the last election, he was anxious to retire after serving several years, owing to the fact that his business called for the spending of a large part of his time on the Mainland. He, however, was persuaded to continue, but now finds it essential to retire.

ARMISTICE DAY

(By an Armistice Mother)

Yes, I am an Armistice mother. And my mother before me, her mother, too.

It is another eleven of November. Once again we remember the day that we won the World War. It was on that first November that they laid my baby in my arms. And his father, my father, died for him.

It was on the celebration day at the close of the Boer War that my father was reported dead and his son with him. It was near the end of the Crimean War that my grandfather fell.

War? What is it? Why is it? Is there nothing we can do to stop the dread menace? "That you may live as brothers." Someone said that a long time ago. Yet war comes over the horizon. I cry against it! I beseech all the powers against it! It isn't fair.

It is unreasonable that a few men of state should send out the people that they may lose their lives. Life is a gift to all humanity. It is the rankiest ingratitude to throw it away no matter how it may be. And yet—man has invented the dread instrument of war to do away with life. It is unreasonable.

Let the nations of the earth go down on their bended knees and pray for guidance with wholesome fear. Let the tolerance become the password of the world. Let the state, in your hands, be the destiny of races. Treat your great privilege with goodness, with humility. Let us all lift up our eyes to the hills and find great strength therein.

It is another eleven of November. And in the hush we remember those who gave us their lives. I see regiments of young men standing around the Cenotaph. My son among them, his young eyes fixed reverently to the flag. His father died that before him. And he lies quiet in far-off Flanders.

No letter to the Editor will be inserted unless accompanied by the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception.

"HONEST JOHN OLIVER"

Sir,—I have just been scamping hastily through James Morton's "Life of Honest John Oliver," and should like to take advantage of your columns in commending it to the reading public of British Columbia. Whilst the biography may not be quite so compendious as many of the "heavy cargoed" two or three-volume lives with which we are familiar, "Honest John's" picture is drawn with such fidelity that a most speaking lifelike portrait has been presented to the reader.

I knew Mr. Morton to be possessor of a very facile pen, but I was definitely surprised to find that he could handle the brush and palette with a skill that proved him to be a real artist in colors, or at least in black and white. I trust that this effort on his part may be followed by other works of a similar character from his versatile pen. I know to be true, somewhat of a professed task to undertake. In my humble judgment, Mr. Morton's effort in biographical portraiture would be recognized and rewarded in the most sacred shrine of literary talent in the Old Country and would place him well within the circle of the select.

DAVID GRIVIE TUCKWELL.

43 South Turner Street, Victoria, B.C., November 9, 1933.

INDEPENDENTS

Sir,—I note Mr. John Acland's letter, published in today's Colonist, in which he states the Independents in the forthcoming election represent, no particular leaning except towards individualism. I beg to contradict this statement and to state that the trouble with the Independents is that they are studying my publications and learn something of my platform before making such rash statements. They will become a wiser man.

I stand for our country and the British Empire first, last and all the time before party or private interests, and if we do not support our ways and reduce borrowings there will be precious little left for posterity but debts.

AGNES HELEN MASON.

137 Clarence Street, Victoria, B.C., November 9, 1933.

"A QUESTION OF VERACITY"

Sir,—In Tuesday's issue of the Daily Colonist a somewhat slighting reference was made to myself as "a person signing his name as David Tuckwell," who had had the temerity to charge his worshipful Mayor with failing to accept an invitation to be present at a recent public meeting called to discuss unemployment relief. Exception was taken to my letter and the Mayor emphatically stated that he had never heard of such an invitation until he read of it in the press.

At a meeting of the delegation appointed at that public meeting to wait upon the City Council, held that evening (Thursday, November 9) the secretary definitely and clearly stated that "he personally took the invitation, in writing, round to the Mayor's office, handed it to Mr. Baxter, the Mayor's private secretary, who opened and read it in his presence, intimating that he would bring it to the Mayor's attention, and that he would if his worshipful was unable to attend he would appoint some member of the Council to be present as his representative."

Now Mr. Editor I am getting well into years (nearing three score years and ten) and have never had my veracity seriously called in question. My friends who know me are quite prepared to believe in my version of this story, but that your readers may be able to judge, please allow me the elementary spirit of fair play and publish this letter, although written only by "a person" whilst for all I know his worship may be a "person (age)."

May I further state that according to the secretary's minutes, Aldermen Kinsman, Lunney, McGavin and Williams

Protests Heard Against Water Service Charge

City Makes Only $20,000 Profit on $7,000,000 Investment, Mayor Tells Deputation—Householders Absorb Part of Distribution Cost to Lower Rate to Heavy Consumers

ONLY $20,000, or three-tenths of one per cent, profit was made on an investment of $7,000,000 in 1931, Mayor David Leeming told a large gallery of delegates who waited upon the public works committee of the City Council yesterday to protest against the new schedule of service charges for water.

Householders, he declared, were paying $15.50 or seventeen cents per home more than the average service charge struck by the American Water Commissioners' Association, so that some relief could be given to industries. This had been done in years gone by to encourage industry, he said, so that manufacturers had little to complain of.

MILLS PROTEST
D. O. Cameron was the first delegate representing the Victoria branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, to protest the new schedule of charges. However, he was under the impression that the rates were being changed, but when told that it was only the service charge, he said he had come to protest any increase in the burden on the lumber mills, which were trying to pay wages and taxes in the city. His firm, he stated, paid $300 a month for water and $400 with taxes to conduct business in the city. John D. Kinsinger, of the C.P.S. Lumber Company, made a similar plea.

After hearing their argument, the Mayor then told of the small profit made on a $7,000,000 investment, and explained that it required a 2 per cent profit to take care of contingencies over a period of years.

SHOWS DISPARITY
W. F. Pinfold, who presented the case of the laundries, said that a greater reduction should be given to the large consumers of water. He said that the average householder used 3,000 cubic feet of water a month as compared with 150,000 cubic feet his laundry used. The reduction in the rate given the laundry, he said, represented only about 20 per cent, and he felt a much greater reduction should be given the consumer using fifty times as much water as used by a householder.

Answering him, the Mayor said he should check his figures more carefully. "I find that the average householder uses 400 cubic feet of water per month and that you use 160,000 cubic feet. The householder pays $1.50 for the 400 cubic feet, and you would pay, if charged on the same basis, $360 a month. However, you pay only $10 a month. You have got a wrong conception entirely," the Mayor replied, explaining that the reduction was far more than 20 per cent to laundries.

IRRIGATION RATE
P. R. Leighton, on behalf of the Victoria Horticultural Association, made a plea for a better irrigation rate, suggesting that a 50 per cent reduction in the water rate be given those whose summer consumption was in excess of their winter consumption.

Frank LeRoy said he was an apartment owner and felt that it was only fair that a service charge of twenty-five cents per occupied suite should be paid by apartment house operators. However, since the council had decided to remove this charge, he was not going to turn down a good thing. He did think, however, that in the case of duplex houses, with only one connection, that two service charges should not be collected from a single suite was vacant. He said he had not paid bills of this kind for several months and did not propose to do so even if taken to court for it.

ON SILVER PLATE
James Forman, when he appeared to protest against the schedule, was told by the Mayor, that apartment house owners, in his opinion, were being given something on a silver platter, and he did not think they should be freed of the service charge on occupied suites.

Mr. Forman retorted that it was time something was done to rectify a situation whereby Oak Bay got a better rate than city residents. The Mayor refuted this statement, declaring it to be inaccurate, and

FEARS LOWER RATE

To this the Mayor replied that F. M. Preston had recommended the main sewerage lines ago in order to boost the pressure in the business district and Fairfield area, and to sell more water to Oak Bay. Advice from the city's legal advisers and water experts warned the city against upsetting the present agreement with Oak Bay as there was a strong possibility that an even lower rate might be given by a board of arbitration.

Alderman Andrew McGavin interjected to say that he thought this advice was "all wet." At the conclusion of the hearing, and after the delegations had departed, the Mayor said that several matters had been brought out in the discussion which the council should try to meet. He had particularly in mind those industries which were carrying a heavy burden and at the same time trying to provide work for the unemployed and pay their taxes to the city.

The water rates by-law will be dealt with by the council at a later meeting.

WILL SEEK ROAD REPAIRS IN WARD

Sanich Ratepayers' Association to Ask Sterilization of All Relief Clothing

To seek the reconditioning of roads and sidewalks in their district, members of Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association, met last night in Tillicum School, to meet the Sanich Municipal Council, Thursday night. It is the request of the association that relief labor, at present engaged elsewhere in the municipality, be used on the roads and sidewalks, which are claimed to be in a dangerous condition.

Members of the deputation are E. Wilkinson, president; J. Pickard, secretary; and Messrs. Moyes, Kelly and White. The delegation was also authorized to call the council's attention to the distribution of used clothing without the benefit of sterilization by the Sanich Welfare Association. In view of the presence of scarlet fever in the district, members expressed a desire to safeguard children of the municipality. The council will be asked to take necessary action.

Mr. Wilkinson was appointed delegate to meet with the Sanich School Board to suggest that arrangements be made to allow children living in homes without proper bathing facilities to weekly visit the Crystal Garden for a shower and swim.

ELECTORS HEAR AIMS OF C.C.F.

Candidates Addressed Campaign Meeting at South Park School Last Night

Candidates of the C.C.F. in Victoria's delayed Provincial election campaign turned out in full force last night to address a meeting of electors in South Park School and to end the first full week of election meetings.

The speakers were T. Guy Sheppard, V. R. Midgeley, Rev. Robert Connell and W. B. Caird and each took a different phase of the aims and objects of the movement, answered criticisms made before and since the general voting in the Province on November 2.

Mr. Caird discussed the displacement of man power by machine and the economic side of the C.C.F. platform and the functions of the movement, explaining as he went along the causes of the present depression and the aim of the C.C.F. to create a new social order by elimination of the profit system and replacing it with a system of socialism in which the needs of the people would be the first consideration.

CHRISTIAN ETHICS
Rev. Robert Connell dealt mainly with the religious or Christian side of the movement and he answered a statement made by Hugh Savage, elected member for Cowichan, following the vote on November 2. He said the statement was "full of misrepresentation and untruth." He discoursed at some length on the

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Gives Assurances Over Crescent Beach

There is no desire to hurry the Crescent Beach proposals and, in any event, Crown grant will not be issued or registered before the change of Government on November 15, Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Lands, assured Reeve J. T. Brown, of Surrey, by letter yesterday. The whole deal has been proceeding stage by stage before the department in the normal way, from a commencement early last Spring, and it is not closed yet. "There has been no undue haste to consummate the sale of the tide flats at Crescent Beach. If there had been any attempt to rush this matter through, the whole thing could have been settled long before now. The proposed sale just advanced step by step, in the ordinary way, and I can assure you that no effort will be made to issue the Crown grant and have it registered before the fifteenth of this month, as would have been the case were there anything connected with the deal that I was ashamed to reveal," the minister informed Reeve Brown.

Railway Bridges In Iowa Wrecked; Strikers Blamed

MISSOURI VALLEY, Iowa, Nov. 10 (AP).—Two railway bridges, one on the Illinois Central and one on the Chicago Northwestern, were slightly damaged by dynamite blasts today.

The bridges, parallel to each other, are three miles south of Woodbine and eight miles east of Logan, Harrison county seat. The blasts were set off at the south end of each bridge. They knocked out a few railway ties, but traffic was not delayed. Railway officials attributed the attempt to wreck the bridges to farm strikers.

MAKING REPAIRS TO DAMAGED AIRPLANE IN NORTHERN WILDS

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Nov. 10 (CP).—Thomas Seamans, J. Bonnell and H. Hatfield, three of the party of flyers from Chicago, who crashed in the upper half-way country last Fall, were here today after an eleven-day trip by pack-horse and sleigh. They will pack repairs and supplies to their base north of Cypress Creek.

The wrecked plane has been dismantled and is being rebuilt in a makeshift hangar. It is expected the party will be able to fly out in February, using skills for the take-off. Delay in obtaining the necessary repairs has been holding up work.

Wife: "I can read you like a book, John."
Husband: "Why don't you, then? You skip what you don't like in a book, and linger over it in me."

Mrs. M. J. Mercer Called to Rest At Home in City

Mrs. Mary Jane Mercer, aged seventy-four years, passed away yesterday at her home, 2416 Forbes Street. She was born in Shropshire, England, and had lived in this city for the past twenty-two years.

Elder, Victoria; three sons, Herbert of Port Alberni, William and Harold Mercer, Victoria; twenty-one grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

REMAINS LAID AT REST

The remains of William Henry Lambert, who died in North Vancouver on November 7, in his eighty-first year, were laid at rest yesterday afternoon in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. Rev. J. B. Rowell officiating. Many friends of the deceased were present. The following were pallbearers: R. McDonald, L. J. Eckman, George McCandless and D. H. Hartness.

WHOLE ISSUE PENDING

At the time Mr. Hinchliffe wrote the letter, no payment of any kind had been tendered by the Crescent Beach Development Company. In the afternoon mail, however, the company offered payment of 10 per cent of the amount of the proposed purchase price. The offer has not been dealt with, and no effort will be made to close the deal, the minister affirmed.

Meanwhile, however, a second storm such as broke through the tide last year, would play havoc with property at the Beach. Responsibility of that situation will not be accepted by the minister.

Dr. Clem Davies Makes Strong Attack on Liberals Before James Bay Electors

"It is very fitting that the group to whose credit can be charged the major portion for the mess we are in, in British Columbia, should be appointed by destiny to have the job of cleaning it up," declared Dr. Clem Davies, independent candidate for Victoria, in speaking to James Bay electors last night, in Connors' Saloon's Institute auditorium. Harry Owen, labor candidate in Victoria, spoke from the same platform, and Herbert Boothman gave an address in support of Dr. Davies.

"For thirteen years the Liberals, the party which comes into power on the fifteenth of this month, spent money like drunken sailors on useless and unproductive ventures, mainly in order to win power and copalaid themselves during their rule by handing out the hard-earned dollars of the taxpayers to win up-country elections," Dr. Davies asserted.

In view of their past record, the speaker warned it would be necessary to watch the Liberals. Only a strong opposition, containing men of courage, who will be willing to resign their seats on a major issue and have a by-election in their constituencies in order to get the people aroused, can keep the Government to its promises, he pointed out.

NEED YOUNG MEN
"We need young men in the Legislature. Give men of my generation a chance, and you will not have a deaf and dumb assembly in the Legislative Assembly when something is being railroaded through the House," Dr. Davies declared.

Stating he did not fear the debt of British Columbia, Dr. Davies claimed he was opposed to the policy of piling up debt and interest charges on the heads of the children. He declared the policy of the Government, borrowing on a system whereby three dollars was paid on every dollar, is insane.

Harry Owen pointed out that Victoria would not suffer if it did not vote solely for the Liberals, as this city has received no favors in the past from the Government. He asserted that in order that proper expenditure of public works money were made, it would be necessary to elect men to the Legislative Assembly with practical experience. He told the meeting he had twenty years' experience in road building, and for nine years was superintendent of public works in the city.

Vicks VapoRub... the better method of treating Colds— externally...

YEAR after year, use of Vicks VapoRub steadily increases. Holding its old friends. Winning countless new ones. There is only one VapoRub. Tested and proved by two generations as best for colds, it maintains its unique place as the family standby.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness. At the same time, it gives off soothing medicated vapors which are carried with every breath direct to irritated air-passages—all night long. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

It's because Vicks VapoRub has this combined poultice-vapor action—stimulation and inhalation—that it brings quicker relief. And safely, too—no "dosing" to upset delicate digestion! Medication that goes direct to the seat of trouble. No wonder VapoRub has won such overwhelming preference and world-wide fame!

Cooking School Comes to Close

Mrs. Pinkerton, 2220 Cook Street, was winner of the first prize in the oral contest, held yesterday afternoon at the closing session of the Hudson's Bay Cooking School, which has been conducted by Jane Taylor Allen, the subject being, "Why I Use Swans Down Flour." Mrs. V. Carleton, of Sooke, was winner of second prize, and Mrs. Chow, of 1030 Burdett Avenue, was winner of third prize. The judges were Mrs. Allen and Mr. A. S. Woodard.

Mrs. Pinkerton's remarks were clear, concise, and to the point. She, and all the other contestants were of the opinion that the Swans Down Flour was economical, dependable, and success was always assured.

GIVES RECIPES

Miss Allen revealed many cake secrets in her class and gave the recipe for Standard White Cake, which is as follows: One cup of sugar, half a cup of butter, two cups of sifted Swans Down cake flour, two level teaspoons of baking powder, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt, two-thirds of a cup of sweet milk, one teaspoon of vanilla, three eggs, white added last. Bake for forty-five or fifty minutes in a moderate oven. The chocolate wonder frosting is made with a three-ounce package of cream cheese, three or four table spoons of milk, two squares of melted chocolate, two cups of icing sugar and a dash of salt. Soften the cheese with the milk, add the sugar and chocolate and beat well. Miss Allen showed how simply pineapple jam can be made with Certo. The recipe called for three cups of sugar, two cups of canned pineapple, one tablespoon of lemon juice. Bring to a fast, rolling boil, and boil for half a minute. Remove from the stove and stir in half a cup of Certo. Stir until all the fruit has been well mixed and bottled.

But Not Without Sleep

When the nerves become greatly fatigued there is a failure of the vital organs. The action of the heart is weakened, the gastric juices of the stomach fail to flow, the filtering organs become sluggish and you suffer from indigestion, sleeplessness and headaches. You are worried and irritable and down-hearted.

You are in a weakened state of health and need the restorative help which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can so surely give you. The continued use of this

BLINDNESS NOT ALL NECESSARY

M. C. Robinson, of National Institute, Vancouver, Confers With Oculists Here

For the special purpose of discussing with Victoria oculists practical measures for the prevention of blindness, M. C. Robinson, superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and Miss Amy Leigh, field worker, both of Vancouver, visited the city yesterday and met Dr. M. J. Keyes, Dr. J. A. Stewart, and Dr. W. E. Scott. A luncheon conference at the Empress Hotel.

"For one reason or another practically 50 per cent of the total registered blind in Canada are blind of preventable causes, and it is with the direct object of trying to decrease this percentage that the Canadian National Institute has set out on its present mission," Mr. Robinson said in the course of a statement made to The Colonist, following the conference with Victoria doctors. He and his co-workers hoped that some practical and efficient plan of prevention of preventable blindness would be worked out in the near future.

CONCESSION STAND

While here, Mr. Robinson and Miss Leigh inspected the concession stand granted by the Provincial Government for the employees in the Parliament Buildings. This stand is in the bicycle shed on the grounds, and has been given in charge of a blind Victoria boy, Keith Stapleton, who has just completed a long period of training at the National Institute in Vancouver.

Mr. Robinson, in this connection, noted that the institute has recently established a blind per centage of the blind in Vancouver, and the field worker, Miss Leigh, is now arranging for some of the blind in Victoria to get accommodation there. This house it was mentioned, was presented to the institute by the Vancouver parks board, and completely furnished by the Vancouver Lions Club.

Recently, also, the institute, with the object of finding further employment for the blind, has added to its other industries the manufacture of tin dustbins, which are sold in conjunction with brooms. They are also now manufacturing a "sure-fire" kinder, and are employed with a view of extending employment to the blind, among the companies interviewed being General Steel, Canadian Bag & Sack Co., and various tin dustbin makers.

COMFORD WORK

Mr. Robinson himself has just returned from the meeting of the Canadian Institute for the Blind at Toronto, which he followed by research work at Philadelphia, New York, and Washington. He studied the various blind institutions there with a view of extending employment to the blind, among the companies interviewed being General Steel, Canadian Bag & Sack Co., and various tin dustbin makers.

Others present at the luncheon were Fred Landsberg, chairman of the Victoria branch of the institute, and Miss Black.

Fine Coleridge-Taylor Music Presented Here

Two Cantatas, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "Death of Minnehaha," Sung at Metropolitan Church Last Night—May Be Repeated

One of the inexplicably neglected great British composers of the century, Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, was eloquently brought to the attention of a Victoria audience last night in the performance at the Metropolitan Church of the two cantatas, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "Death of Minnehaha." The music, set to the words of Longfellow's fine poem, was really splendidly performed by soloists, chorus and orchestra. Frank Tupling, directing, Edward Parsons at the organ, a choir of seventy-five voices for the choruses, ten stringed instruments, and Dorothy Parsons, Nelson Hicks and Dr. T. H. Johns carrying the solo parts assigned in the cantatas to Minnehaha, Chibiabos and Hiawatha. Mme. Reese Burns, director, added much to the pictorial atmosphere of the work by her dramatic reading of the poem, and plans were being discussed last night for a repetition of the work some evening next week.

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," the first of the two cantatas to be written, is a thing very fine in itself, and harmonically, but it has not the beautifully developed homogeneity of "Death of Minnehaha," which has richer and more varied harmonic and gains much in appeal from being in the minor key nearly all the time. Both present sufficient difficulties to stamp any choir successfully presenting them as first class organizations, and anyone hearing last night's performance would not fail to be greatly impressed both by the fine musical approach to the works and the sense of their dignity and poetic majesty conveyed throughout.

DESCRIPTIVE MUSIC

In the first cantata, set to charming and descriptive music, a short allegro modero introduction for orchestra paves the way for the narrative beginning, "You shining, 'Pau-Puk-Keewis,' and all that follows to describe the marriage of Hiawatha and Minnehaha, the feast prepared by old Nokomis, the singing of Chibiabos, and the story-telling of Iagoo, the great boater. The tempo changes constantly throughout the work, and in three-four time, and advancing from the slow to the presto, introducing a duet, then a trio form, and finally joining all voices in a great crescendo of tonal

SMELTER TO PAY ON NEW SYSTEM

Employees at Trail Will Share With Company in Metal-Price Advances

TRAIL, B.C., Nov. 10 (CP).—Increased wages through the new method of figuring a metal bonus and the reintroduction of an efficiency bonus was announced today by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company and the workmen's committee.

The announcement culminates combined efforts of the company and committee to augment wages received by the men and to work out a more satisfactory efficiency bonus. The metal bonus will start at a lower price of metals than that formerly in effect. It was stated this new figure is possible owing to improvements in production methods. Production and metal prices under the new schemes will give the men approximately twenty-five cents a day more in wages. This figure will increase as metal prices and markets improve.

Wife Preservers

When washing your best china or glassware, spread a towel over the drainboard. It was save chipping and cracking. A towel or dishcloth in the bottom of the dishpan will help.

To keep baked potatoes hot for a long time, bake as usual, then turn off heat and wrap each potato separately in several thicknesses of newspaper. Return to warm oven, but do not relight.

A bowl of water with a glass flower container in it is useful for children using water color paints. The youngsters may place brushes in the holder when not using them.

Steep tea not more than five or six minutes. It develops an unpleasant flavor if steeped longer.

If you cannot get parsley during the winter months, dry some and use for flavoring in place of fresh leaves.

When your bittersweet becomes dusty and shriveled, put it out in the rain. It will brighten the color and the berries. Or you can put it in water for a short time.

Rubbing bacon or olive oil over potatoes before baking keeps the skins from shriveling and adds to the flavor.

Sand in the bottom of the container for cut flowers holds the flowers in place, and keeps them fresh longer than water alone.

If you have a pair of sharp-pointed scissors in your pocket, you will save punctured fingers if you put a cork on the points.

When restraining beads, try "splicing" the new string to the old one with wax or paraffin, doubling it for about one inch. In this way the beads can easily be slipped over, and those which have dropped off can be picked up by pointing the waxed end.

City and District

Sancho Closing—Chief of Police Allan Rankin announced yesterday that all Sancho stores must close today in observance of Remembrance Day, as in the city and other municipalities.

Short Wave Club—The Victoria Short Wave Club will hold a meeting tonight at the home of W. Wilson, 1224 Johnson Street, and at which officers for the coming year will be elected.

Special Meeting—Members of St. Paul's Ward Sea-Raiders Association decided last night, in Tillicum School, to hold a special meeting on November 24 to discuss ways and means of collecting shoes for needy children.

Annual Dinner Postponed—Owing to the delay in arrival of the memorial plaque, which is now expected to reach Victoria about the end of November, it has been deemed advisable to postpone the annual dinner of the Seventh Battalion Association until early in December.

Buildings Closed—Observing the general holiday in connection with Remembrance Day, offices at the Legislative Buildings will remain closed all day today. School children had a holiday yesterday, and another special holiday on November 27, polling day in this riding.

Fills Vacancy—The literary and scientific representative on Victoria College students' council for the balance of the year will be Hugh Parquhar, it was learned when students balloted at the institution yesterday. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Paul Henderson, who previously filled the position.

Meeting on Monday—Some important pronouncements connected with the election campaign will be made at a meeting to be held on Monday evening, at the Chamber of Commerce, in support of the candidacy of Dr. Clem Davies. Supporting Dr. Davies will be Captain R. P. Matheson, and Harry Owen, Labor candidate.

Candidate to Speak—Robert Cassidy, R.C., Conservative candidate in Victoria City, will hold a tea at the Empress Hotel today between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m., he announced yesterday. Music, recitations and a talk by the candidate will be on the programme.

WILL NOT ACCEPT AMERICAN DOLLAR

Postmasters in Canada Instructed to Refuse United States Currency

OTTAWA, Nov. 10 (CP).—Because the American dollar has fallen below par in relation to Canadian money, Canadian postmasters have been instructed not to accept United States currency. The order applies to the 13,000 postoffices throughout the country.

The order to postmasters was issued yesterday from various district headquarters. Under statutory regulations, Canadian postoffices have been limited to accepting "legal tender of Canada" in the past, but premium, the law was observed only in spirit and United States currency was accepted and the premium added to postoffice receipts.

Rushed From Fire To Answer Alarm

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10 (CP).—Engaged in their usual afternoon card game, firemen of No. 14 fire hall laughed at several youngsters who dashed in to tell them the hall was on fire. Then the alarm sounded, and they donned their rubber coats, rushed out the fire hall, answered it, only to be met by the same boys, who pointed to the blazing chimney of the fire hall.

"Why do you always call your wife 'Honey,' Mr. Brown?" "Well, honey has always disappeared with me," answers (London).

Little Bedtime Stories

Chewink Is Grateful
—By THORNTON W. BURGESS

From his perch in the top of a little tree, a thick, round, red head, Chewink the Towhee watched Reddy Fox out of sight, then he called softly: "To-wheel-to-wheel, Chewink! Chewink! All is safe now, Peter Rabbit. Come out and talk with me and let me tell you how grateful I am to you for saving my life!"

Chewink flew down to the ground and Peter Rabbit crept out of the bramble-tangle where he had been hiding. "It wasn't anything," declared Peter. "I saw Reddy and I knew you didn't, so of course I gave the alarm. You would have done the same thing for me. Do you know, Chewink, I've wondered a great deal about you."

"What have you wondered about me?" asked Chewink.

"I've wondered what family you belong to," replied Peter. Chewink chuckled. "I belong to a big family," said he. "I belong to the biggest family among the birds. It is the Finch and Sparrow family. There are a lot of us and a good many of us don't look much like you. I belong to the Finch family. I suppose you know that Rosebreast the Grosbeak and Glory the Cardinal are members of my family."

"I didn't know it," replied Peter, "but if you say it is so I suppose it must be so. It is easier to believe that than that you are related to the Sparrows."

"Nevertheless I am," declared Peter. "What were you scratching for when I first saw you?" asked Peter. "Oh, worms and bugs that hide under the leaves," replied Chewink carelessly. "You have no idea how I love them. I've hidden under dead leaves."

"Do you eat anything else?" asked Peter.

NO "NEW DEAL" NEEDED FOR COUGHS OR COLDS

with Buckley's Mixture around

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE is still supreme when it comes to dealing a knockout blow to coughs, colds, flu or bronchitis. Every day brings unsolicited testimonials that no other remedy is so safe, so dependable, so lightning fast in action. Coughs and colds relieved with one dose—inspired with two—brought about many years standing miraculously relieved with one bottle, in the story they tell. If you have tried other remedies in vain, why not make sure of relief by taking BUCKLEY'S. It acts like a flash—A single slip proves it. Play safe—refuse substitutes—Buckley's is sold everywhere.

"Mamma, what becomes of an automobile when it gets too old to run any more?"
"Why, somebody sells it to your pa, dear, for a used car as good as new."

"Berries and wild fruits in season," replied Chewink. "I'm very fond of them. They make a variety in the bill of fare."

"I've noticed that I seldom see you in a tree-top," remarked Peter. "I like the ground better," replied Chewink. "I spend more of my time on the ground than anywhere else."

"I suppose that means that you nest on the ground," ventured Peter.

Chewink nodded. "Of course," said he. "As a matter of fact, I've got a nest in this very thicket. Mrs. Towhee is on it right now, and I suspect she's belonging to the same species. I know what happened over here when you warned me about Reddy Fox. I think I must go over and set her mind at rest."

Dr. Switzer's Peace Address to Take Interesting Form at Morning Service

In keeping with the request of the General Council of the United Church of Canada and the Victoria League of Nations Society, the Oak Bay United Church is designating tomorrow, November 12, as Peace Sunday.

C. A. Gibbard will read the immortal poem, "In Flanders Fields." The music will be in keeping with the theme of the day, and will include the anthem, "What Art Thou?" (Staiger), and a bass solo, "Recessional," sung by W. H. Ruffell.

It will constitute a glimpse behind the scenes, the burning, display and flag waving of those sinister forces which prosper through war and war scares. On Friday next a play, "Just Women," will be presented under the auspices of the Women's Association in the schoolroom of the church on Granite Street.

In the evening Seymour White will sing two solos, "In Flanders Fields" (J. Dean Wells), and "Recessional" (Reginald de Koven). A musical service of exceptional merit will be held in First United Church on Sunday evening, when the large choir will render Maunders' beautiful sacred cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace." At the morning service Rev. C. G. Wilson, D.D., will preach, taking for his subject, "We Need More Than Remembrance."

Parsons May Not Collect Fee for Marrying People

THAT twenty shillings was the legal fee that ministers might demand for marrying people in the early days of the colony of Vancouver Island, but that a modern person can make no such charge; that every place where a marriage ceremony is being performed is open to the public; and that a marriage may be solemnized at any hour of the day or night are some of the more of the interesting facts that are to be found in the recent volume on Vital Statistics, published by the Board of Health in this province. They will be found in a third and concluding article on matters matrimonial which will appear in tomorrow's issue.

WILL CONSIDER MODERN NEEDS

Minister of City Temple to Respond to Spirit of Remembrance Day

Responding to the spirit of Remembrance Day, and adopting the motif to modern trends, Dr. Clem Davies, at City Temple tomorrow evening, will speak on the intriguing subject, "Heroes in War, Cowards in Peace." He will contend that in war no sacrifice was too great, either in men or money, to effect the objective, and that in peace no sacrifice should be too great to rescue the people from the dire results of the depression.

The same enthusiasm and abandon which characterized our efforts to secure success upon the battlefield should, Dr. Davies contends, be displayed in our fight upon want and distress. "Unfortunately, our periods of display of splendid heroism are always directed toward the destruction, but that we are cowards when called upon to face constructive responsibilities," he says.

The morning gathering will take the form of a remembrance service, at which Dr. Davies' sermon subject will be "Memories."

PERSONAL ITEMS and SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Both Dances Held in Honor of Armistice Are Well Attended

Thousand Persons Enjoy Events at Empress Hotel and Shrine Auditorium—Special Music Is Provided by Calvin Winter's Orchestra

ALTHOUGH Armistice Day still has its solemn memories and its deeper meaning, nevertheless the jubilant spirit which prevailed on November 11, 1918, remains and the jubilation with which the news was greeted fifteen years ago prevailed last evening when two brilliant balls were held in the city.

The Amputations Association of the Great War Veterans sponsored a delightful affair at the Empress Hotel, which was attended by many hundreds of citizens, among whom were a large number of ex-service men and representatives of local militia units. The ball was held under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Pordham Johnson; Commander V. G. B. de la Roche, senior naval officer, and Mrs. Brodeur; Major-General E. C. Ashton, C.M.G., officer commanding Military District No. 11, and Mrs. Ashton, who were also patrons of the Canadian Legion Armistice ball which was held at the Shrine Hall. At this ball, Lieut.-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., and Lady Lake; Viscount Colville of Culross and Mrs. W. C. Nichol were also distinguished patrons and patronesses.

SPLENDID MUSIC

The crystal ballroom of the hotel was simply but effectively decorated with flags, and the lovely gowns of the ladies shone in the brilliant light of the whole effect being one of brilliant color and gaiety.

A special feature of the evening, and one which will live long in the memory of those attending the ball, was the music of Calvin Winter, the popular musical conductor from the Mainland, whose nine-piece orchestra played a splendid programme of the latest New York dance hits as well as many of the old war-time favorites, which were enthusiastically received. People were distributed as favors, and were worn by the guests.

Through the courtesy of Work Point Barracks, a number of films showing the latest equipment in British tanks, assault bridging, the new six-wheel lorries, etc., were presented by Sergeant C. M. Henry, of Work Point Barracks, these films having been distributed by the British War Office for instruction purposes.

MILITARY TAP DANCE

Miss Georgina Dowdall, a charming young dancer, appeared in a special military tap dance to the tunes of "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Tipperary," played by the orchestra. She wore a fascinating little white costume, trimmed with bands of red, white and blue ribbon, and carried a smart red sash. On her head was a jaunty little "pull-box" cap trimmed in red, white and blue. The guests loudly expressed their appreciation, and she danced again and again. Supper was served by the hotel management in the dining-room, during the evening.

The entire executive of the Amputations Association, better known as "Fragments From France," composed of A. Palmer, president; C. O. Ockenden, first vice-president; J. Walls, second vice-president; John Davy, secretary, and A. Sutcliffe, C.M.G., officer commanding Military District No. 11, and Mrs. Ashton, who were also patrons of the Canadian Legion Armistice ball which was held at the Shrine Hall. At this ball, Lieut.-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., and Lady Lake; Viscount Colville of Culross and Mrs. W. C. Nichol were also distinguished patrons and patronesses.

CAPITOL SCREENS "BITTER SWEET"

Noel Coward's Distinguished Stage Success Now in Film—Excellent Cast Shown

Much enthusiastic comment has been aroused over Stuart Robertson's rendition of that rousing Tokyo song, sung in Herr Schlick's Viennese cafe, and one of the many delightful scenes in "Bitter Sweet," the film version of Noel Coward's internationally famous operetta, opening today at the Capitol Theatre, produced by British and Dominion and released by United Artists.

Stuart Robertson is a famous English baritone, noted in radio and concert work, and making his film debut in "Bitter Sweet." In his boyhood, Robertson was in the choir in His Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, and was solo bass at St. Paul's Cathedral during his training at the Royal College of Music. Then came a romantic step in his career.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen
Capitol—"Bitter Sweet," starring Anna Neagle.
Columbia—Randolph Scott in "To the Last Man."
Dominion—"One Man's Journey," starring Lionel Barrymore.
Empire—Jessie Mathews in "Little Tommy Tucker."

To oblige a friend, he agreed to appear at a concert in Escondido. On the night of the concert, he was made nervous by the news that Melba was to be present, and when he went on to sing, she was sitting in the front row. Melba, at the moment, was preparing for her farewell tour of Australia, and that same evening she offered Stuart Robertson an engagement with her. He accepted, and from the time of that tour has been acclaimed one of England's greatest baritones.

Robertson's taste in music runs to the classics. His favorite musician is Bach, yet he is in no sense a highbrow, and holds a high opinion of Noel Coward's superb melodies in "Bitter Sweet."

In "Bitter Sweet," Robertson gives leading support to Anna Neagle, Fernand Graveny, Miles Mander and Ivy St. Heller. Herbert Wilcox directed.

EMPIRE A recent review of the Theatre "Little Tommy Tucker," the Powers picture starring Gene Gerrard, which is playing at the Empire Theatre, says, in part: "A light-hearted story wherein the comedy ball is kept rolling in a fast-moving and snappily staged succession of farce-comedy situations, plus successful fooling." Which very aptly describes this gay picture of a demure, modern Cinderella, who falls in love with a radio announcer's voice.

COLUMBIA Esther Ralston, now appearing in a film, or mount's Zane Grey picture, "To the Last Man," at the Columbia Theatre, first won prominence in films as Wendy's mother in "Peter Pan." She has just returned from a three-year sojourn in England, where she worked in British films.

DOMINION Something new in romantic fade-outs is introduced in "One Man's Journey," RKO-Radio production, starring Lionel Barrymore, now at the Dominion Theatre. A troth is plighted, but not a kiss even an embrace features its scaling. A quiet departure for Niagara Falls seals the romance. The principals of this unique scene are Barrymore and May Robson, who play the central figures of a "December" romance.

GEORGIA MINSTRELS AT EMPIRE MONDAY

Fresh from a successful tour of Southern and West Coast theatres, the Georgia Minstrels will appear here at the Empire Theatre, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition to the minstrel proper, the show is presenting within itself, another lively revue by the Harlem Night Club Creole Girls. These young women, rated as the most beautiful from New York's black belt, Harlem, serve as a singing and dancing chorus, and many of their routines are considered by critics as "putting the fan dance to shame."

Comedy of the show is supplied

Rare Books in Miniature

HERE are two handfuls of books of the collection of miniature books of the rare books of the library of United States Congress. The library has the smallest book in the world, but it has the second smallest. Incidentally in this illustration one can find that the read list of books which he should take along with him on that "trip to the desert life." In it are the Bible, Shakespeare, Dante, Kant, Diderot, Poe, and others.

MANY REHEARSALS OF CAST FOR "JADE GOD"

Well over 100 hours of rehearsal have been necessary to produce in a finished manner the vehicle chosen by the Little Theatre for its premier performance this season at the Shrine Auditorium, on November 16. Rehearsals have taken on a really professional and business-like atmosphere as Director Leslie Lamb, and his co-director, Hugh Creiman, coach the well-chosen cast of "The Jade God." Discipline is maintained by the director, and each member of the group must adhere to rules and regulations.

The whole cast is maintaining the air of suspense and mystery consistently, and their work gives promise of an evening of splendid entertainment.

SYMPHONY CONCERT ATTRACTING NOTICE

The playing of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra last Sunday was so exceptionally good that the collaborating musicians were treated to an accolade, which lasted several minutes and would not be still until the orchestra repeated the finale, when the applause rang out again to the accompanying shouts of "Bravo, bravo." The enthusiasm expressed by the audience was such that it is usual in European countries, and the orchestra's playing must have been indeed stirring to arouse a well-behaved, quiet Sunday concert audience to the point of rising in their seats and shouting.

A rare treat is provided for the patrons of this concert to be given on Monday at the Royal Victoria at 8:30 p.m. It is requested that all patrons be seated by 8:30 to avoid any unpleasant interruptions during the overture.

"Well, my poor man, what do you work at?"

"Intervals, mum."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

APPLYING THE LAW OF SYMMETRY

No mathematical point in all card playing is quite so difficult to settle as the question of whether or not to finesse for an outstanding queen when holding nine cards of a certain suit headed by the A-K-J. Too few players have learned to use the law of symmetry for their guidance, although their choice of plays often determines the success or failure of their contract.

The principle of the law of symmetry is very simple. It was original with me, and I have long recommended it highly to all bridge players because I know how valuable it has been to me, and thus can be to them. The player must simply remember that whatever the pattern of any hand of thirteen cards dealt, there will probably be a suit pattern which conforms to it. Thus, if a player's hand is divided 5-4-2-2, the distribution of some suit in the four hands will probably be 5-4-2-2 also. This varies, of course, but usually only to the extent of one card. That is, the equivalent suit may be divided 5-4-2-2.

The hand which I discuss below is a very fine example of the application of the law of symmetry in actual play. Each of the four hands has a definite pattern, of course, and each of the four suits is of the exact pattern of one of those hands. By realizing that this was probable, a clever player made a small slam, vulnerable, and gained 1,730 points for his team.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

"Whiz-Bang Revue" Will Be Presented Again at City Temple Twice Today

No efforts are being spared to make the second engagement of the "Whiz-Bang" Variety Show, to be presented today at the City Temple, a crowning success, and to judge from the way the tickets are selling, a large crowd is expected, and as the show is being staged to help swell the funds of the City Temple Christian Cheer Fund for the needy, it is worthy of every success.

There will be a matinee today at 2:30 o'clock and an evening performance at 8 o'clock. An added attraction will be the dream scene from "The Belle" in which George Durham will play the part of Mathias, the part made famous by the late Sir Henry Irving. Mr. Durham will be ably supported by Erice Bryce as the judge and Victor Standerswick as the miser.

Essondale Patients' Work Seen

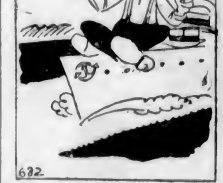

Of all the humanitarian work done in hospitals one of the least known, as it is also one of the most truly and deeply humanitarian, is the occupational therapy instruction provided for patients in the provincial Mental Hospital at Essondale.

Great interest has been evinced during the last few days in the exhibition of work, shown in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel, in connection with the annual meeting of the British Columbia Hospitals Association.

In charge of Mrs. W. A. Burdick and Miss Mary Gordon, two of the instructors from the Essondale

Hotel for Maple Bay Proposed by Southern Visitor

MAPLE BAY, Nov. 10.—Establishment of a $37,000 hotel here is planned by Otis Goodman, Hollywood hotel proprietor, who is visiting Maple Bay.

Mr. Goodman plans to build his hotel in the near future to serve year-round tourist trade.

Mr. Goodman predicted that the time is not far off when Vancouver Island will be invaded by motion picture companies.

ATTRACTIVELY ARRANGED

The display was most attractively set up, with the help of H. Whitaker, chief architect of the province. The color sequence was very effective, and illustrated another fact, namely, that many of the materials used are "remakes" of old blankets, curtains, etc., while woolen hook rugs and numerous other articles represented instruction in the processes of carding, washing, dying and spinning.

In a mauve group was a huge round bedside rug, made by a patient of seventy years; a red group included a painted end table, cellophane belt, fabric gloves, a crocheted hat; a rose and silver group included a floral trellis, table sets and embroidered wall-hangings.

Enormous ornamental frogs, a kimono, an upholstered stick-weed chair, waste-paper basket and lamp made an attractive matching group in green, black and lacquer red, and there were paintings on muslin, also resins, enormous screen flower baskets, and runners. Mickle Mouse and Minnie done in felt, and other toys are beautifully designed and of most lively expression.

TEAMS CONFIDENT ON EVE OF IMPORTANT BATTLE

Blue Ribbons Score Decisive Victory Over Beavers in Senior Hoop Division

Champions Register 53 to 14 Decision; Pantorium Victors

Dominion Basketball Titleholders Win as They Please as They Continue Bid for City Championship—Cleaners Down Maroons, 36-11—Deals Beat Out Taiyos, 31-19

Coasting along in championship style, Blue Ribbons hung up another one-sided victory in their bid for their second successive senior men's city basketball crown last night at the High School gymnasium by winning as they pleased from the Beavers, 53 to 14. The Dominion champions unscathed some brilliant play and after taking a big lead, took matters easy. Pantorium women had an easy task with the Maroons in the senior "B" division, winning 36 to 11, while the Deals took the Taiyos into camp in the second game, 31 to 19.

Playing with a skeleton crew, no substitutes being on hand, the Beavers were hopelessly outclassed, but never quit trying against such a well-balanced quintette as the Ribbons. Brown opened the score for the Beavers in the early minutes, but it was the last time they held the lead. The Ribbons displaying combination to lead at the interval, 27 to 6. Every member of the champions, except Johnny Craig, figured in the scoring in the first half.

HOLD BIG EDGE
With a big lead, Ribbons took the floor in the second canto with the two champions on the bench. The first time since the season opened these two stalwarts have been seen side by side. With Red Martin tossing in some beauties, the winners continued to increase their lead, and the regulars went back in the game and the score still mounted.

George Robertson topped the scoring brigade with seven points, while Chuck Chapman and Red Martin were next with ten each.

Art Chapman tallied eight and Doug Peden scored in another seven.

DEALATS WIN

Deals have a smart club lined up and took the Taiyos after some fine teamwork. The winners would be 50 per cent better if they watched their passes and shooting and paid less attention to the gallery. At the end of the first half, Deals were out in front, 16-9, and then outscored the Japanese in the final half, 15-10, to win comfortably.

Pantorium's victory over the Maroons was well in the bag in the first half, the score being 20-2 at the halfway mark. Again in the last session, the winners dominated the play and tossed in another sixteen points as against nine.

Tommy Macdonald refereed and the teams follow:
Deals—Coates (5), Cliff Higgins, Sharpe (6), Andrews (12), Naysmith (4), Birnie, Shepherd (4), Taiyos—Ishida (4), Iol, Ashikawa (12), Kawahara, M. Ishida (2), Shimizu, Kuwata, Kawasoe (1), H. Kuwata, Kondo.

Pantorium—M. Wilson (13), I. Bernard (2), L. Stokes, T. Rennie (4), R. Bernard, E. Peden (2), R. Bethel (9), E. Trotter (6).
Maroons—Z. Richards, P. McLachlan (2), J. Cosh (4), B. Stewart, R. Cosh, M. Holdridge (2), E. Creed, E. McWilliams (3), K. Miles, A. Speed.

Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt to Meet in Cup Tilt

PRELIMINARY round of the Milton Cup series in the Pacific Coast Football League will take place December 2, at the Royal Athletic Park, with Saanich Thistles facing Esquimalt. The competition is worked on the knockout basis and some hard-fought matches are expected before the trophy holders are named. The series will be run off in between the regular league schedule.

IRISH TEAM WINS HORSE SHOW CROWN

Buck Private Aids Shamrock Horsemen to Great Victory at New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—With a back peg from the rear ranks cast in the role of a hero, the Irish Free State Army team tonight won the National Horse Show's first major trophy, national jumping trophy, defeating the army teams of four other nations in the high score competition decided in a series of three events in as many days.

With only three officers on the team, and needing a fourth rider to send four horses in succession over the difficult Olympic course, the Irish drafted William Finlay, whose main task is to see that the seven equestrian jumpers get plenty to eat and drink.

Appearing before metropolitan society, massed to the number of 10,000 around the Madison Square Garden race track, did not face Private Finlay.

FOUR FINE JUMPS

As calm as his officers, who have competed in five previous Nationals, Finlay, threw a leg over Ireland's own. Without an error, the four horses took the first four jumps. Then at the other, Captain Dan Corry's mount, Shannon Power, faltered, knocking down; but that did not bother Private Finlay.

Three and one-half points behind the Irish, in second place, was the Swedish Army team with fifteen and one-half points, followed by the Canadian Army with twenty-eight, and the Czechoslovakian team with fifty and one-half.

Province Cagemen To Battle Ribbons Here This Evening

Smart Vancouver Hoop Squad to Take on Dominion Titleholders in Exhibition Fixture at High School Gymnasium—Adverts to Meet Pantorium Women in Preliminary Game

Headed by that basket-shooting ace, Harvey McIntyre, and the elongated Jack Purves, king of the tip-off players on the Mainland, Vancouver Province's smart cage squad will invade the city tonight to try conclusions with the Victoria High School gymnasium and will follow the preliminary women's battle between Adverts, undefeated leaders, and Pantorium, which will start at 8 o'clock.

Ranked by experts as the best balanced quintette in Vancouver, the Province are coming here with several well-known hoopmen and are expected to give the champions a tough assignment from the opening whistle. The Mainlanders will probably base their offensive around McIntyre and Purves, two lads who should prove troublesome to the local defence all evening. Purves is well over six feet and is dynamite under the basket, while McIntyre's style of play has always delighted Victorians.

INVADING TEAM

McIntyre pivots beautifully, is an expert dribbler and one of the best long shots in the province. Some of the visitors will be appearing here for the first time, while the others have shown before. Norm Will, Eddie Armstrong, Bert Smith, Russ Kennington, Ross Helem, Bill Chater and Red Macdonnell comprise the rest of the Province's personnel.

WOMEN'S BATTLE

Pantorium will be out after revenge when they take the floor against the Adverts in the curtain raiser. In their last meeting, which was a league fixture, Adverts came from behind in the last few minutes to nose their opponents out by a 21-18 score. It was the hardest fought women's game seen at the gymnasium in years and was any body's battle during the final half. Ruby Bethel and Eleanor Trotter, for two steady guards, will start for Pantorium on the rear flank while Mary Wilson, Torrie Rennie and Eleanor Peden are the regular front rank. The Bernard sisters and Lillian Stokes will be ready for relief work. Adverts will be at full strength and will probably go on the court with Gert Taylor and Biddy Bore as guards, and the Spark, Berta and Mary Peden on the offensive. Doris Martin, Kay Freestone and Alice Lalonde, a trio of fine reserves, will be ready for duty.

Two Cage Games Booked at West Road Gymnasium

Two basketball fixtures will take place this evening in the West Road Hall, starting at 8 o'clock. In the first battle, Cardinals and Standard Steam Laundry will hook up in women's exhibition, while Lake Hill K. of P. quintette will face Slingers in the second game. A dance will follow.

Three Junior League Games Billed Today

Three Junior League soccer matches are scheduled for today. Jokers Juniors will meet North Saanich at North Saanich, while Royal Oak will journey to James Island. In the other game, Esquimalt will battle Oaklands at Spencer's Park.

Jokers will line up as follows: Restall, Rickinson, Larry Kennedy, Les Kennedy, Pearce, Spellar, Bell, Stewart, Anderson, Gellins and G. Smith.

Mat Show Will Be Held Nov. 18 At Tillicum Gym

AFTER a long absence, wrestling will return to the city a week from today, when Promoter Fred Richardson puts on his first show of the season at the Tillicum Gymnasium. In the eight-minute-round main event, Wildcat Pete, Eugene, Oregon, will grapple Wild Freddie McDermott, Canada, while Bob Kennedy, Wisconsin, will take on Napoleon Stradiotti, Vancouver, in the five-round semi-wind-up. Pat Griffin, local wrestler, will be matched for the curtain raiser. On November 25 boxing will return, Charlie Storck already being matched with Sonny Buxton for the main battle.

SCOTTISH AND 5TH WILL CLASH TODAY IN ANNUAL FIXTURE

Fifteens Primed for Second of Series of Lieutenant-Governor's Cup at Royal Athletic Park at 2:45 o'Clock—Line-Ups Announced—Premier-Elect Pattullo to Start Game

How Teams Will Line Up for Army Rugby Fixture Today

Here is the line-ups of the 5th Regiment and Canadian Scottish fifteens for today's second annual Army English Rugby fixture at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:45 o'clock—

5th Regiment—	Position	—Scottish
McInnes	Fullback	Colgate
Planning	three-quarter	Horrie
S. Gaunt	three-quarter	Bryden
Guibbe	three-quarter	Copeland
Boorman	three-quarter	Cochling
Stipe	five-eighth	Tye
Buller	scrum half	Robson
Dale-Johnson	forward	Beckett
Stewart	forward	Campbell
Doswell	forward	Goodwin
De Blaquiere	forward	Briggs
Eastham	forward	Orme
Hobson	forward	Woodley
Englestone	forward
Linesmen—Alan Le Marquand and Harry Warburton. Referee—C. E. Ley.

Confidence reigned in both camps on the eve of the second annual English Rugby fixture between the 5th Brigade and Canadian Scottish this afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:45 o'clock. Personnel of both squads were officially announced yesterday and one of the finest exhibitions of the year should take place before the winners of the coveted trophy. Their underdog status was a distinct advantage of avoidpoups in the scrum, outweighing the Gunners, 184 pounds to 175-1-2.

FIRST GAME
This series was organized two years ago, but last year the trophy was up for competition for the first time and the game ended in a deadlock, the teams holding the silverware for six months. In 1931 the Scottish fielded a powerful fifteen and won by a clear margin before a fine turn out. In case of accidents, the Canadian stretcher bearers, who have attended all important games in past seasons, will be on hand to render first aid treatment.

"The boys are all well primed and expert of winning today's battle," stated Coach Morton yesterday, when questioned about his chances.

"After seeing the team work-out, I don't think there is any doubt about the outcome," was the remark of Coach Cyril Wightman.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
Tanks—The tank was invented by Major-General Swinton of the British Army, based on the propelling principle of the caterpillar farm tractor invented by an American, Benjamin Holt, of California, about 1900. A large number of tanks was manufactured in Britain between August, 1916, and March, 1927. To prevent the secret from leaking out to the enemy the British Government permitted it to be whispered about that the huge machines were intended to carry water to the British armies fighting in Egypt. They were called "cisterns" or "reservoirs" at first, but later the shorter word "tank" was adopted and stuck. The tank was the surprise of the Great War and offset the Central Powers' initial superiority in machine guns and central mobility. Both the "Polono" and its Antidote" (machine gun and tank) are based on American inventions.

CALLING IT A "PEACH"
 Anyone who doubts that the English language is like a museum or an album of all the periods and all the places in the world needs but to track down to their sources many of our commonest words.
 This word "peach"—the familiar name of a familiar and popular fruit which we are wont to think of as a native of the State of California! It received its name long before California or any of the United States came into being.
 Literally "peach" is a Persian apple! Through the old French "pêche" we have it from the Latin "Persicum" (malum)—the Persian apple!
 "Mamma, is that woman married?" asked little Freddie, as he gazed at the statue.
 "No," said his mother, "that's the Goddess of Liberty."

RAFT MADE
FAST TIMEDrift of Swimming Float
Stirs Spirit of Adventure in Boys

It was Robert Louis Stevenson who queried, "Where go the boats that little children set adrift?" It has been answered in a small way during the past year hereabouts. During the months of July and August last, two small sons of Captain Walter Brown, of Oswego Street, built a diving platform on the east side of Trella Point, South Pender Island, locally known as "Bilke" Point, and named it "The Rip". The platform, which carries a small raft, is situated in the centre of Boundary Channel, eastwards towards Saturna Island and northward along Navy Channel, or back westward towards Sidney.

On leaving South Pender for home about August 25, the boys turned adrift the diving platform, which consisted of four fir logs floored with batens, on which was left the box of stones used for an anchor. Three days after, one of the boys found the platform intact, but covered with seaweed, drifting half a mile east of Macaulay Point. It now lies inside the Breakwater near the pilot's landing, having been towed there by the lads.

TEACHES LESSON
To some, Captain Brown suggested, a tree is merely firewood, and a raft drifting about would be looked on as much the same thing; but to the lads, trained in the Victoria Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps, the finding of the raft in home waters teaches a practical lesson in connection with the action of tidal streams, besides furnishing them with a mooring place for their boats. The boys are now trying to figure out what course they have charted and logged had they drifted with the raft between South Pender Island and Macaulay Point.

The drift of the raft has stirred the spirit of adventure in both the boys and they have expressed a desire to be set adrift in their canoes about the same time of the year, under similar circumstances, so that they might solve the riddle of the tides, rips and eddies that brought the raft from their summer camping place to Victoria.

SEINES TAKE
EVERY FISHGill-Net Users Protest New Regulations to Deputy Minister Found

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 10 (CP)—Strong representations of damage done to the Fraser River fishing industry through Government regulations permitting the use of purse-seine nets in the Gulf of Georgia, were made yesterday to W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries, Ottawa, at a meeting in the Fisheries Office.

The fishermen's claims were backed by Mayor A. Wells Gray, Thomas Reid, M.P., and Reeve R. C. MacDonald, Cootnam, all of whom stated that the regulations had put 1,500 fishermen out of employment.

The fishermen's delegates, W. E. Malden, L. Peterson, A. Halcrow, W. Rogers, E. Sater, B. Larsen, George Cunderson and Peter Larsen, condemned the regulations and asked whether the Government was prepared to buy them out and reimburse them for the capital expended on boats and equipment.

TOOK ALL FISH

The seine fishermen, they say, were taking all the fish, no humpbacks or whites coming up the Fraser, while cod were being netted with the plinks. The seine fishermen were also accused of fishing in brackish water and destroying the humpback run entirely. A salmon had a chance to escape a gill net, Mr. Malden said, but the seine net took every fish.

Mr. Found decided the regulation on the ground that it was in the best public interest to protect the quality of canned salmon exported to other countries and said that in 1929, 160,000 cases of salmon had been sent to the Old Country, part of which was still unsold, owing to its "soupy" nature. He stated that the Fraser River fish could only be classed as second class, the quality of the fish deteriorating when it came into brackish water. The seines, he said, operated in salt water.

A fisherman declared that the purse-seines took $50 from each of the 1,500 Fraser River gill net fishermen.

THREE-MILE LIMIT

Speakers advocated a three-mile limit for seine nets, and it was stated frequently that a continuation of the use of seine nets would mean the extermination of all salmon in the Fraser.

Mr. Found, on the suggestion of Mayor Gray, agreed to place the fishermen's representations before the Minister of Fisheries and also the opinions expressed by them to him.

TARIFFS ARE TROUBLESOME

Proposed Australian Anti-Dumping Duties Arouse Ire of Japanese

"Great Britain is intent on driving Japanese goods out of the Empire market," states the Nichi Nichi. "The latest indication of this has been the lowering of the preferential tariff in Australia on British goods."

"The revised preferential duties on British goods were suddenly put into effect October 15. This will not hurt Japanese imports seriously, but will place them in a disadvantageous position. The action of the Australian Government is in accord with the decisions of the Ottawa Conference, which was concerned with the establishment of an economic bloc among component parts of the British Empire. We have no objections," the paper goes on, to Great Britain readjusting its relations with the rest of the Empire. We have nothing to complain of regarding British steps taken to promote her own trade interests.

AIMED AT JAPAN

"There are indications, however, that the sudden reduction of the preferential tariff in Australia for British goods was designed to hurt Japan. According to reports, a bill recently introduced in the Australian Legislature, establishing special duties on goods from countries with depreciated currencies. This forces the introduction of the Australian Government in bent on oppressing Japanese goods. The bill would impose heavy anti-dumping duties on a number of articles. It would, for instance, impose a duty of 70 per cent on towels of non-British origin against the existing 35 per cent duty on British products. Passage of the measure would be a death blow to Japanese exports."

"It is regrettable that Australia should exercise economic pressure on Japan in disregard of the friendly trade relationship which has long existed between the countries. The motives of the authors of the bill are not stated. But it is easy to imagine them. The authors must have had in mind the low wages paid in this country. That there is no foundation for complaints that Japanese competition is unfair has already been made clear by the Japanese delegates at the India-Japanese trade conference in Simla."

GOOD CUSTOMER

"Japan is one of the best customers of Australia. Last year Japan bought 134,000,000 yen worth of wool, wheat and other commodities from Australia. Our exports to Australia amounted only to 37,000,000 yen, of which 12,000,000 was represented by silk and rayon."

"According to reports, those engaged in trade with Japan in Australia are opposing the proposed anti-dumping duties. They hold that Australia will suffer most if the plan materializes. One report states that the Australian Government has informally decided to exempt articles of Japanese origin."

from the scope of the proposed measures. It is premature to be hopeful. In any case there are means by which Japan could make Australia regret any discriminatory action against Japanese goods. Japan could, for instance, boycott Australian wool. It is not altogether impossible for the Japanese to discontinue their use of Australian woolen cloth," concludes the paper.
